Sir,

In returning the papers that accompanied your Endorsement C. No 425, dated 1st February 1899, I have the honour to report that the Railway Inspector of Police has made careful enquiries along the line and has formed the opinion that the irregularities complained of are not enacted through the connivance of Railway employees. He considers, and I agree with him, that the general public is now so well versed in the plague regulations that they are capable of proceeding of their own accord to such stratagems. The common practice in vogue at one time of passengers alighting at intermediate stations and prebooking from stations not declared to be plague infected areas has of late been in a great measure checked by the discovery and exposure of such persons. I have &c.
