made on account of a distressed British Seaman named E. D'Encourt, late of the British Barque "Ann Bridson," and to explain that this man was left behind in Hospital at Vizagapatam as far back as the 11th May 1859. He was subsequently engaged in some employment by Messrs. Healy and Co., of that place, but having for some reason unknown been discharged, he became destitute and applied to the Collector for assistance which was afforded from the 2nd November last to the 3rd of the following month.

He was then sent from Vizagapatam to Bimlipatam and put on board the "Sea Park" for passage to Madras, where he arrived on the 14th December 1859.

2. I have now to solicit that the expenses*
