submitted with the ship's papers. This ultimately proved to be the case.

3. As to the late submission of these documents would not affect the Deputy Conservator's office, that officer addressed the Deputy Commissioner for information as to whether early reports were absolutely necessary and why. As the reports were received late from the vessels it was obviously impossible for the Deputy Conservator to furnish copies then and there as before; but until the receipt of the G.O. under reference it was not known by the Deputy Conservator that furnishing copies had been discontinued as no complaint was received from the Deputy Commissioner. Arrangements will be made for their being supplied in future.

4. In this connection I would point out that Messrs. Binny & Co. the Agents of the B. I. S. N. Company object to giving particulars of passengers

SIR,

With reference to G.O. Marine etc 25, dated 18th January 1895, I have the honour to report as follows:-

2. Under the recent ruling of Government that Masters of vessels must make their own arrangements for sending in Arrival Reports it seemed probable that the Agents of the different lines of steamers would avail themselves of the long interval, viz, 24 hours, allowed by the Act, and instead of the reports being received by the Deputy Conservator on arrival of the vessel as formerly, when a copy was at once sent to the Deputy Commissioner of Police, they would be detained and submitted
