Bombay Castle, 12th May 1897.

No. 2580—1936-P.—The Governor in Council is pleased, under the provisions of the Epidemic Diseases Act, III of 1897, to direct that the following rule be substituted for Rule I of the rules published under Government notification No. 656—165-P., dated 6th February 1897:—

“No vessel shall leave the port of Bombay until she has been inspected by the Health officer of the port, and the master or person in charge of such vessel has obtained a bill of health or certificate from such officer that the master or person in charge, officers, crew and passengers (if any) of such vessel are free from any dangerous epidemic disease; provided that, in the case of a vessel that has called at Bombay from a port outside the continent of India en route for some other port and which has on arrival a clean bill of health and has had no communication with Bombay except through any person or persons who shall have embarked there, the inspection of such vessel by the Health officer of the port may be limited to the medical examination of such person or persons so embarked, and the bill of health or certificate required by this rule shall only certify that such person or persons is or are free from dangerous epidemic disease, and such certificate may be in the form of an endorsement on the bill of health furnished to the vessel at the last port of call prior to arrival at Bombay. For the purposes of this proviso the Collector of Customs and the Port Health officer are empowered to decide what shall constitute communication with Bombay.”
