From the Accountant-General, No. 1632, dated 26th May 1897, explaining the circumstances under which one Franz, who was acting as a light-keeper, was disallowed the travelling allowance to join his acting appointment and interpreting article 1191 (a), Civil Service Regulations.

Letter—No. 524, Financial, dated 6th July 1897, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department.

I am directed to request the orders of the Government of India as to whether article 1191 (a) of the Civil Service Regulations covers the case of a light-keeper in this Presidency who, before joining his appointment at a distance, receives a technical training under skilled supervision at Madras. The Accountant-General, to whom the question has been referred, states that it has been the practice of his office to apply the article in question only in cases where the special training has been in "a recognised institution" and embraced "a definite curriculum," and that the note to the article supports this limitation.

2. It may, however, be pointed out that the cases coming under (b), (c), (d) and (e) give a wider scope to the rule than the Accountant-General is disposed to allow.

3. The case which has given rise to this reference is that one E. Franz who has been appointed head light-keeper of the Sacramento lighthouse after acting as a light-keeper in the Madras lighthouse where he received the requisite technical training to fit him for independent charge of a light. A charge of Rs. 11 has been incurred for a steamer passage from Madras, which the Accountant-General has disallowed.

4. I am to add that the question is likely to attain some prominence in the future as the scheme for a better class of light-keeper which the Madras Government has had under consideration for some time contemplates the regular training of men before they are put in charge of important lights; and as no "recognised institutions" with "a definite curriculum" are in existence, the requisite technical training must be given by other means.

Chief Secretary.
