ORDER. In 369 dated 11 May 1898

In G.O. 960 Marine, dated 25th November 1897 it was stated that if events subsequently occurred which proved that the prescribed period for inspection of vessels under the quarantine rules was insufficient, the question of extending the period might be revived. The sanitary Commissioner now revives the question but has not cited any such events. His Excellency the Governor in Council is thus unable to reconsider the matter.

For orders.

with reference to R.O.
960 Marine, of 25 Nov 1897
and the notes attached to the draft of the order.

We cannot alter —

What we said was that we could not alter if events subsequently occurred which showed that the 10 days' period was too short. But the two cases have not occurred.

The proposed alteration could not be made by this Govt., and it is doubtful whether it could be made by the Govt.
of India — being that it goes beyond the Regulations adopted by the Sanitary Convention.
