It seems a pity to print so many of rules of which has been ^{severely} criticised altered.
It will be better, I think, to inform India that one of the principal rules has been ^{severely} redrafted, and that shortly be forwarded for sanction that when sanction
is received hundred copies of the rules
will be forwarded

There is no complete set of the rules in a collected form.
It is proposed therefore to print the accompanying set which has been revised to date. 50 copies will be sufficient, of which 32 go to the Govt. of India.

So far, it is only a proposed alteration. It has still to be sanctioned by India. What is now asked for is, copies of the Rules as they now exist.
Immediately the revised rules are sanctioned, they will be supplied in continuation.
