Sweet Opia 7th 25 1844 Evening. The illness brought away a few last night. The illness completely returned the tendency over Mumps. He has had frequent fits of sweating during the day preceded by chill. The diet has not yet acted he has taken the laxative draught ordered yesterday. complexion of very little pain, pulse 88, tongue dry. To have gr. xxv Sweet Opia at 10 p.m.
 2nd December. Slept pretty well in frequent snatches, and feels refreshed complained most of the intense parching of his mouth and throat, in consequence of which he drank a great deal of water overnight.
 The medicine began to act last night and has done its work in small quantities. Stools watery frequent, and healthy.
 There is no pain today, or present or otherwise.
 Irritation continues, but without producing common accompaniments. The raised morbidity still continues in the bowels is quite remarkable, and there is constant desire to go to stool without any result. Last night he twice passed feces unconsciously. Sometimes he feels that numbness in the hands - pulse soft. Mouth and throat exceedingly parched & tongue white.

Mr. Smith comes in from a malarious district suffering from symptoms of hepatitis, concurrent with which appear symptoms of enteritis fever.
He has been, relapses, and makes a tedious progress towards health. He has been 17th November 1857. Mr. Smith - Came in for the district this morning, suffering from pain in his right side, which attacked him 5 or 6 days ago after being much exposed and wet. He states that for the last 20 years he has been subject to disease of his liver, and that he has been twice actually treated for severe attacks of hepatitis.

On the last occasion the pain came on suddenly with shaking headache, fever, and some rigors.
The headache was so bad that he applied a blaster to his forehead, from which he obtained a little relief. For the last 2 days he has been troubled with sickness and vomiting, and nothing whatever has remained on his stomach but cold water. No pressure great pain is felt at the anterior edge of the right lobe of the liver, which is somewhat enlarged, and pressure there has also communicated pain to this place. There is the usual dragging pain when lying on the left side, and deep inspiration aggravates it. Yesterday he had two severe rigors and the day before the same.
Still more so. No still complaints of headache.
Tongue very faint and loaded, and mouth dry and furred. Pulse moderate and soft. Bowels rather confined. No nights have been very restless and sleepless. I have let leeches applied to seat of pain, and the following medicine immediately
