To the Shareholders of the Natal Bank.

GENTLEMEN,—Having ceased to be General Manager of your Bank, I beg to draw your attention to the following testimonials.
Letter from the Manager of the Union Bank of London to the Hon. PHILIP ALLEN, Chairman of the Natal Bank appointing me General Manager.
Mansion House, London, 5th March, 1860.
PHILIP ALLEN, Esq., Natal Bank.

Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 7th January, intimating the resignation of Mr. BEHRENS from the Management of your Bank, and requesting me to undertake the nomination of a fit person as his successor. This, always holding my best services at the disposal of the Bank's constituents, I at once took in hand, but as I imagined would be the case, from the comparative insufficiency of the stipend in consideration of the responsibilities of the office, I had great difficulty in meeting with a gentleman adapted for the appointment on your terms; and had almost despaired of being able to execute your commission, when to my great satisfaction, Mr. FINLAYSON, a gentleman who has held his position in this Bank as long as myself, viz: since its formation, signified his willingness to undertake the appointment. I greatly felicitate you, as also myself, on this result. Mr. FINLAYSON having, during his long service here conducted his duties to my entire satisfaction, and having as you may imagine in general banking business, I may add that, notwithstanding his long service, Mr. FINLAYSON's age is considerably beneath your limit, and that he is a married man. I have therefore, formally, as your Agent nominated him to the appointment, notifying in accordance with your instructions, that half-salary will commence with the date of his embarkation.

I remain, dear sir,
Yours faithfully,
(Signed) W. W. SCRIMGEOUR, Manager.

Letter from the Secretary of the Union Bank of London to me, on my leaving their establishment.
Union Bank of London, 2, Prince's-st.,
Mansion House, E. C.,
London, March 7th, 1860.
HENRY FINLAYSON, Esq.

My Dear Sir,—Your letter of this date, announcing your appointment as Manager of the Natal Bank, and in consequence thereof tendering the resignation of the situation you have held in this Bank for nearly twenty-one years, has been laid before the Court of Directors, who have directed me in notifying their acceptance of such resignation to convey to you their sincere congratulations on the occasion, together with the best wishes for your health and prosperity, and the expressions of their confidence that the exercise of the same have always rendered during the long period of your engagement with them, will ensure your success in your new undertaking.

Believe me, my dear sir,
Yours very faithfully,
H. NEWMARCH, Secretary.

Natal Bank,
General Manager of that establishment.
Pietermaritzburg, 3rd April, 1861.

HENRY FINLAYSON, Esq., Pietermaritzburg.
Sir,—With reference to your letter dated 26th ultimo, requesting a certificate of character as Manager of this Bank, I am instructed by the Board of Directors to say that you have filled the office of General Manager during the period of seven months, and they have had no occasion to question your honesty, and believe you discharged the duties of your office to the best of your ability.

I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,
PHILIP ALLEN, Chairman.

I leave you, Gentlemen, now to make your own comparisons between the letters I received from the Union Bank of London, after 21 years' service, and the letter from the Board of Directors of the Natal Bank after a service of only seven months. The causes of differences which have arisen between me and the Board I have no right here to publish to the world, but I can only say that I have been guided in my course by the principles which ought to guide every honest man.—I have the honor, to be,

Gentlemen, your most

Obedient Servant,

HENRY FINLAYSON,

Late General Manager of the Natal Bank.

Mr. Adams, on their be- they were pas- sengers on board the ship Castle Eden, and had paid high prices in order to procure good accommodation and good food, but had neither the one nor the other. He held in his hand an agreement entered into with one of the passengers, in which it was set forth that the passenger was to be supplied "with fresh meat and new bread every day, and fresh water ad libitum." For himself he was a 'tween-deck passenger, and when he contracted with the agent it was agreed that he should have light and air, and he was shown the means by which this was to be secured in a plan of the ship at the agents, and subsequently on the ship itself. It was by means of a scuttle. Before they left the river, however, the captain said the ship was so deep that it was necessary to close the scuttle, and this was done by screwing boards over it, and the consequence was that the 'tween-deck passengers had neither fresh air nor light. This was done in the river, and before they reached the mouth of the river dinner was served; but so bad was it, and so filthy the arrangements, and so poor the attendance, that the whole of the passengers protested, and wished the captain to stop in the Downs until the agents for the ship had been brought acquainted with the passengers' protest; the captain's answer was, "Loose the top-ail." They then had a week's fine weather, and every day added new proofs of the badness of the ship and her accommodation. The Bench would be able to judge for themselves when he told them that for over thirty passengers, for a voyage of 105 days, there were sixteen sheep and sixteen small pigs. Bread they had for the first few days, but when the supply was exhausted, on inquiry for some, they were told there was no person on board that could bake. An effort, however, was made, and something like putty was the result. When the weather became rougher, every time the vessel rolled the water came in at every seam. They lost main and mizen top-sail yards in fine weather, from some cause, at first a mystery, but which became evident on examining the wood. They lost sail after sail, and there was sometimes two feet of water in the cabins. As to attendance, nothing could be worse: passengers had to empty their own slops and wait on themselves, and if they wanted anything in the store they could not even creep on their hands and knees after it, but had literally to crawl on their bellies for it. The pigs even were so badly housed that many of them died, and of the poultry some 90 per cent had died. The sheep were better placed. When the foul weather came on, the water came in 'tween-deck so fast as to become alarming. When they had been out ten days the carpenter said to the passengers that they must protest against proceeding on the voyage. They had done so, and the vessel put in here in consequence. They knew if they went to sea in the vessel they should be half starved, and they feared they would be half drowned. They would like that Captain Stoll, R.N., the Government emigration officer, who was present, should inspect the vessel.

The Mayor said the question was clearly one of law; as to Capt Stoll inspecting the ship, that was a matter with which that Court had nothing whatever to do.

Mr. Adams: The passengers would like Capt. Stoll to see the vessel—her 'tween-decks, her cabins and accommodations, and her live stock. For himself (Mr. Adams) he did not know if the vessel was sound below water, but he did know that her upper works were not water tight.

The Mayor replied that he had no power to order anything in the matter, and if he had an opinion he would rather withhold it. The weather had recently been unusually severe, and possibly some of the discomforts alluded to were due to that circumstance.

Mr. Adams said he had been in many storms, and having travelled over two-thirds of the globe, had had experience in voyaging.

The Mayor asked if it was within the knowledge of the passengers that repairs were not being made on the vessel?

Mr. Adams said he was not, but on the contrary, he had been told that a sum of £2000 had been put down for repairs, and that the Captain had just received in Cases, 2nd

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE,

PRONOUNCED BY EXTRACT of LETTER

TO BE THE to his Brother at

ONLY GOOD SAUCE WORCESTER, May, 1851.

AND APPLICABLE TO "Tell LEA & PERKINS

EVERY VARIETY that their SAUCE is

OF DISH. highly esteemed in India, and is, in my opinion, the most palatable as well

as the most wholesome

Sauce that is made."

EXTENSIVE FRAUDS.

L. & P. having discovered that several of the Foreign Markets have been supplied with spurious imitations of their

"WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE," the labels of which closely resemble those of the genuine Sauce, and in one or more instances with the names of L. & P. FORGED; they have deemed it their duty to caution the public, and to request purchasers to see that the names of LEA & PERKINS are upon
