SIR,

I find that two more Dressers in addition to the four already applied for, for this District, are absolutely necessary, and would request that they may be sent up with as little delay as possible. Fever is still very prevalent and a party of work people only ten miles from Head quarters requires a separate medical attendant.

Submitted to Government with a recommendation that

It would seem of the greatest importance at the present stage of operations on the Upper Godavery that the work people should not be discouraged through the absence of medical aid during the existing prevalence of fever.
