On the south the detail should extend as far as Alepy, and take in the whole of the back-water and the country for a few miles on the east side of it including Cotayam (Kotium) up to the projecting portion of the Cochin Sirkar in latitude 9° 49'. From thence, the detail should include all to the left of a line proceeding northwards to the isolated Cochin tract of Vallarapully, and thence all to the north of the Periar river which runs by that place as far as the meridian of the extreme south-east corner of the Cochin territories above alluded to.
