No. 368. Read the following Endorsement of the Superintending Engineer, 5th Division, dated Salem, 11th October 1867, No. 143 :—

Read the following letter from the Executive Engineer, Bangalore, to the Superintending Engineer, 5th Division, dated Bangalore, 9th October 1867, No. 759.

1. With reference to your No. 205 of 7th instant, and O. G. No. 3,020 of 27th ultimo, forwarded therewith, I have the honor to furnish the following information regarding the Hospital for Cavalry and Artillery on the Race Course :—

2. The Male Hospital consists of two pavilions, one for Cavalry and one for Artillery. Each pavilion consists of two stories, and in each story are two general wards for sixteen patients each, and two special case wards for two beds each. The total number of patients that can be accommodated in each pavilion is, therefore, sixty-four in four general wards, and eight in four special wards, or seventy-two in all.

3. As, however, it is highly improbable that, under ordinary circumstances, anything like this number will ever be in Hospital at once, one, if not both, of the wards on the lower floor will usually be available as a day-room for convalescents, &c.

4. Each floor, of each pavilion, has two ablution rooms, each 24'x16'; two latrines of six seats each, and four urinals. A cart-shed and earth-store are also attached to each pavilion.

5. For patients suffering from contagious diseases, separate wards are provided at a distance from the principal buildings. For each arm is provided a building containing three rooms, for three beds each, or nine beds in all. A proportionate amount of latrine and lavatory accommodation is provided for these buildings.

6. A cook-house 16½'x23', and quarters for two subordinates are also provided for each arm.

7. The administrative rooms, which are connected with the principal pavilions by covered colonnades, consist of an office (20'x40½') and a large operating theatre, common to both arms, with a receiving room (20'x15') a surgery (20'x20'), and a dispensary (20'x20') for each.

8. The Female Hospital is a two storied building, containing, on each floor, a general ward for twelve patients; on the lower floor, quarters for a nurse, and on the upper floor, two special wards for two beds each. Two lavatories, each 12 feet square, and a latrine of six seats, are provided for each floor of this building.

9. The subsidiary buildings attached to the Female Hospital consist of a separate ward and a cook-house, on the same scale as those allotted to each male pavilion. The total number of female patients that can be accommodated is, therefore, 37, i. e., twenty-eight in the main building, and nine in the separate ward.

10. The information required regarding the day-rooms attached to the Married quarters for Artillery, will be furnished as soon as the buildings have been in occupation for a reasonable time. They are at present incomplete, but I expect to be able to hand them over for occupation in about a month.

Proceedings of the Madras Government, Public Works Department, 18th October 1867.

11. I would observe that a day-room is not provided for each block, as supposed by the Government of India, but only for two blocks out of the four, that is, one for each battery.

Forwarded for the information of Government, with reference to G. O. No. 3,020, of the 27th September 1867.

To, The Superintending Engineer
5th Division

Sir,

With reference to your No. 305 of 7th instant and O. O. No. 3020 of 27th ultimo, forwarded therewith, I have the honor to furnish the following information regarding the Hospital for Cavalry and Artillery on the Race Course.

2- The Male Hospital consists of two pavilions, one for Cavalry and one for Artillery. Each pavilion consists of two stories, and in each story are two general wards for 16 patients each, and two special case wards for two beds each. The total number of patients that can be accommodated in each pavilion is therefore 64, in four general wards, and 8 in four special wards, or 72 in all.

3- As however it is highly improbable that, under under ordinary circumstances, anything like this number will ever be in hospital at once, one, if not both, of the wards on the lower floor will usually be available as a day room for convalescents generally.

4- Each floor, of each pavilion, has two ablution rooms, each $2\frac{1}{2} \times 16$; two bathtubs, of six seats each, and four urinals. A cart shed and earthstone urinals attached to each pavilion.

5- For patients suffering from contagious diseases, separate wards are provided, at a distance from the principal buildings. For each arm is provided a building containing three rooms, for three beds each, or nine beds in all. A proportionate amount of latrine and lavatory accommodation is provided for these buildings.

6- A cook-house $16\frac{1}{2} \times 23$, and quarters for two subordinates are also provided for each arm.

7- The administrative rooms, which are connected with the principal pavilions by covered colonnades, consist of

of an office ($20 \times 40\frac{1}{2}$) and a large operating theatre, common to both arms, with a receiving room (20×15) a surgery (20×20) and a dispensary (20×20) for each.

8- The Female Hospital is a two storied building, containing, on each floor, a general ward for 12 patients, on the lower floor, quarters for a nurse, and on the upper floor, two special wards for two beds each. Two lavatories, each 12 square, and a latrine of 6 seats, are provided for each floor of this building.

9- The subsidiary buildings attached to the Female Hospital consist of a separate ward and a Cook house, on the same scale as those allotted to each Male Pavilion. The total number of female patients that can be accommodated is therefore 37, i.e. 28 in the main building, and 9 in the separate ward.

10- The information required regarding the day rooms, attached to the Married Quarters

Quarters for Artillery will be furnished as soon as the buildings have been in occupation for a reasonable time.
They are at present incomplete, but I expect to be able to hand them over for occupation in about a month.

11- It would be observed that a day room is not provided for each block, as supposed by the Government of India, but only for two blocks out of the four, that is, one for each battery.
