5. Of the works included under the head "Ordinary" in the estimate received from the Government of Madras those noted in the margin should apparently be treated as "Extraordinary works," and they have been accordingly provided for under that head in the above grant. It may be noticed that in the estimate of this Presidency, no provision was made for Establishment, or Tools and Plant, it being stated in explanation of the omission that no reliable estimate of these charges could be framed.

Public Works Department Circular No. 108 of 1867.

RESOLUTION.—The following explanations are given of the manner in which the grants for Irrigation Works have been apportioned under Circular No. 108 of 1867.

2. Where the Provincial estimates have been reduced, the reductions have been made generally on the ground that a much larger sum has been entered in the estimate than, judging by the progress made in preparing estimates, appears to the Government of India to be likely to be spent.

3. As regards the reduction of the sums provided for Establishment, and Tools and Plant, it has to be observed that the amount proposed to be charged to the Agricultural grant under these heads, is not intended to be calculated on the total grant, but on that portion of it only which provides for extraordinary works. The proportion of these charges due to ordinary Agricultural works will continue as heretofore to be adjusted under the proper heads.

4. The estimates and grants of the several Local Governments and Administrations are as follows:—

MADRAS.

5. Of the works included under the head " Ordinary " in the estimate received from the Government of Madras, those noted in the margin should apparently be treated as " Extraordinary works," and they have been accordingly provided for under that head in the above grant. It may be noticed that in the estimate of this Presidency, no provision was made for Establishment, or Tools and Plant, it being stated in explanation of the omission that no reliable estimate of these charges could be framed.
