into Store, and directed the Superintending Engineer to take measures for disposing of the pump house and other buildings in the most advantageous manner. The property was accordingly advertized for sale at an upset price of Rs. 4000, the original cost having been Rs. 7950; but at the Auction only Rs. 1000 were offered. The property was again advertized for sale at the reduced upset price of Rs. 2000 which could not however be realized, and an offer of Rs. 1000, which was again made for it, was declined as it was so much below the actual cost. In G.O. 2nd April 1868, No. 1039, the Government decided on retaining the buildings pending further instructions, for which the Superintendent now applies.
