Extract from letter No 31 of 7th April 1875 from the Chief House Superintendent Mettappallim to A. D. Master General, Mysore Dn.

" They respectfully to bring to your notice that the new Commissariat store room built last month has no verandah to it. As it is usual during the season when large parties are going up and coming down from Wellington to visit draft but to the men it sometimes takes 30 or 40 minutes to complete the issue, the consequence being that the whole of this time the men would be exposed to the heat of the sun, I would therefore respectfully beg to suggest that a verandah might be added to the front of the store room to protect the men from the sun during the issue of liquor.

2. There is also a small passage or opening about 6 feet wide between the stables and the women's privy, this opening was left when the wall was built round the compound for the convenience of officers' Commanding Details passing between the Hotel and Rest House as the distance between the Hotel and Rest House by the Front Gate is about 200 yards and through the opening by the stables it is only about 50 yards; but horsekeepers coming to the stables are continually bringing bundles of grass and straw through the opening and as the eaves of the 2 buildings nearly meet, the consequence is that great damage is done to the roof of the buildings by the knocking off of the coping and tiles. I would therefore respectfully beg to suggest that this passage may be built up with a mud wall 6 feet high and a little gate way (with a gate) opened out through the wall about 15 yards further down for the convenience of officers coming to the Rest House from the Hotel. This gate could be kept locked

"when there were no Details in the Rest House to prevent all stragglers entering the compound?"
