Proceedings of the Madras Government, Public Works Department, 6th September 1876. No. 2,375.

No. 66. Read the following letter from W. LEGGATT, Esq., A.I.C.E., Officiating District Engineer, Bellary, to Major-General G. W. WALKER, R.E., Secretary to Government, Public Works Department, dated Bellary, 31st August 1876, No. 2,032 :—

With reference to G.O., No. 20, of the 3rd instant, I have the honor to report that the building attached to the present Native Infantry Hospital in this station and used as a cook-room was constructed in the year 1814, when the old hospital was built. The estimate for that building, including its out-houses (of which the cook-room in question formed one), amounted to Rupees 7,000, and it does not appear from the records what the cook-room itself cost. The Range Officer, however, estimates the probable cost at about Rupees 400.

2. The materials used in the walls of the cook-house were small stones and brick-in-mud. It had a tiled roof supported on palmyrah couples, which were very rotten. The collar pieces gave way, and a portion of the roof fell in. The walls were about six inches out of the perpendicular, and were cracked in all directions.

No. 67. ORDER THEREON, 6th September 1876, No. 2,375.
