Memorandum.

Proceedings of the Madras Judicial Department
No 286, dated 26 October 1895.

The ceilings proposed would impede ventilation and deprive the occupants of the cells of the cubic space available above them.

The Planks of the ceiling should be placed two inches apart and joists of the more suitable scantling of 6" x 3 1/2" used for the work.

According to the data furnished by the officiating District Engineer with Planks of one inch in thickness and joists of the scantling noted above placed two feet apart, the rate for this description of work at Bangalore would be Rs 28-2-10 per square and at Bellary and Hassan 31-5-4 per square - Thus reducing the estimate by Rs 64. It is observed that 8 1/2 per cent is charged for sundries this should be.

Charge No 843 d/p 1895

1. The ceiling of the cells of the Madras Prison should be constructed of planks of one inch thickness and joists of 6" x 3 1/2" scantling placed two feet apart. The rate for this description of work at Bangalore would be Rs 28-2-10 per square and at Bellary and Hassan 31-5-4 per square. Thus reducing the estimate by Rs 64. It is observed that 8 1/2 per cent is charged for sundries this should be.

reduced to 3 per cent or the cause of excess fully explained. The estimate should be revised as above directed and resubmitted as early as possible to this office.
