V. Subbarayudu was my Head writer from March 1878 to May 1879 when I went on leave and shortly after my departure he was by order of the Examiner P.W. Accounts transferred to do duty in Madras. I always found Subbarayudu to be a thoroughly hardworking & efficient Accountant and recd. to the 1st of September 1878 for an apt. I have much to say about him to make regarding V. Subbarayudu. Northern Divisional (writer) I have the honor to inform that I consider him far more efficient than the average accountants of his age. His accounts are invariably neatly and correctly kept and it is evident that he spares no pains to keep them in good order. His writing is very good and his English composition for a native remarkably so. He has, moreover, memory which seldom fails him & which he often turns to good advantage. Being of an industrious nature I feel sure that he will do well and I have much pleasure in strongly recommending him for promotion should a vacancy occur. I would draw special attention to his efficiency in the points I, II, III of the Examiners' Circular above mentioned.

V. Subbarayudu is a Matriculate and he passed the 4th grade accountants test on 2nd September 1878.
