READ—the following letter from J. T. FOWLER, Esq., Acting Director of Public Instruction, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Madras, 10th April 1883, No. 2295 :—

I have the honor to submit, for the sanction of Government, a plan and estimate for Rs. 6,900, received from the Principal of the Rajahmundry College, for the construction of a Library and a new Principal's class room and private room. The estimate has been prepared in the Superintending Engineer's Office, First Circle, and signed by the Executive Engineer in charge.

2. It is represented that, there being at present no separate room for the Library, the students desiring to consult it experience great inconvenience, and that the provision of a separate room for it will not only obviate this inconvenience, but afford ample accommodation for examination purposes, it being the practice at present to erect sheds temporarily for the large number of candidates who appear annually for the different examinations, while for the ordinary paper exercises given in the school there is absolutely no accommodation whatever, and it becomes necessary on each occasion to interfere with the work of various classes.

3. The charge, Rs. 8,590-8-0, including the cost of supervision and tools, may be met from the balance to the credit of the Educational Building Fund.

Note of Remarks.

1. This estimate with plan, provides for certain additions to the Rajahmundry College and it amounts to Rs 6900.

2. The masonry work is correct but suffi-cient information is not afforded to allow me to say the same
of the wood work - I may however add that from such data as I possess the scale of scantling seems liberal.

3. Neither report (unless the Ag. Director's letter is to be considered such) nor specifi-
-cation
of the work.

I quite concur - and shall be very anxious to see the details of timber should have been given.

There seem to me to be several mistakes in the woodwork. - Purlins ought to be square in section.
Blocks to keep them in place are required.
Stone or wooden templates are required under them when they rest on cross walls, but such are not provided.
"Pole plates under trusses" - a misnomer, and stone slabs will be better than 2" teak.
The girders seem to me to be undrained.
The joints of verandah which support a flag terrace roof have greater scantlings than the joints of end rooms which have larger bearings and support greater trussing.
And joints of porch have 11" bearings & carry greater trussing. Verandah joints have about 9" bearings & carry less trussing. Both have same scantling.

Relieving arches are provided over ventilators. There will not be room for such where the trusses fall over the ventilators which they apparently do in the big room. But the position of the trusses seems to require consideration.

Oright under bamboo matting or some sort of matting to be provided to floors.

Workings would be desirable to beams, joints, trusses, as well as to doors & windows. Dampness is to be feared.

Elevation of Southern porch is not beautiful.

Right us to accept this plan & estimate, viewed in light of my remarks on note by T. ? The thing seems very imperfect, but perhaps all dimensions to be but duplicates of what has been already done in the old wing of the building.
