GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

29th May 1883, No. 3037.

Medical Department.

Read the following papers :—

No. 441. From C. D. MADDEN, Esq., Surgeon-General, Her Majesty's Forces, to Colonel E. L. HANKIN, Secretary to Government, Military Department; dated Madras, 13th April 1883, No. 9-O.

I have the honor to submit to the Right Honorable the Governor in Council that a change is necessary in the existing rules having reference to the treatment of military sick in the General Hospital, Madras, which is now a purely civil institution, and in no respect under the control of this office and that of the Deputy Surgeon-General.

2. Under existing arrangements the following military patients are sent to the General Hospital :—

(a) European warrant and non-commissioned officers and men of the Ordnance, Commissariat, and Public Works Departments.

(b) Details of men of Native corps from mofussil stations who may have fallen sick, or are sent to hospital for observation.

(c) Native invalids arriving from Burmah, who are too ill to proceed to Pallávaram.

3. As regards sick European warrant and non-commissioned officers and men of the departments specified in Class (a), it is suggested that they be treated in the Station Hospital, Madras. The average daily sick of such men in the General Hospital in 1881 only amounted to 0·68, so that the proposed arrangement can be carried out without any difficulty. This, of course, will not relieve the Fort Surgeon of the duty of attending on such of these men as fall within the sphere of his charge when sick in quarters.

4. With reference to the native sick and men under observation specified in Classes (b) and (c) of para. 2, it is recommended that they be sent to the hospital of the Native regiment stationed at Ráyapuram in Madras. This building, it has been ascertained, has sufficient accommodation for their reception, and is within a convenient distance of the pier, at which sick invalids from Burmah are disembarked.

5. It is not proposed to interfere with existing arrangements for the treatment of sick commissioned officers in the General Hospital when that is deemed expedient, or to change the rule with regard to the treatment of the sick men of the establishment of the Gun Carriage Factory in the General Hospital.

No. 442. From W. R. CORNISH, Esq., F.R.C.S., C.I.E., Surgeon-General with the Government of Madras, to Colonel E. L. HANKIN, Secretary to Government, Military Department; dated Ootacamund, 28th April 1883, No. 16-O.

With reference to your memorandum,* No. 2362, of the 23rd instant, I have the honor to report that the proposals of the Surgeon-General, Her Majesty's Forces, for the disposal of military sick details heretofore treated in the Civil General Hospital have my full approval and concurrence.

* Herewith returned as requested.

2. In regard to warrant officers serving in departments immediately under the Government, such as Ordnance, Commissariat, &c., the numbers of sick requiring hospital treatment are but few; and while there may be a difficulty in finding superior accommodation for officers of this class in the station hospital, there is none in the Civil General Hospital, where, I think, they would be more conveniently treated.

3. The Gun Carriage Factory is under the medical charge of the Surgeon, 2nd District, who sends into the General Hospital such men as are unfit for duty and require hospital treatment. The members of this quasi-military establishment might still, with advantage, be received and treated in the Civil General Hospital, which is supported entirely at Government cost.

4. It has been felt that arrangements for purely military details, under the command of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, could not conveniently be made in the Civil General Hospital, which was not under military discipline.

There seems, however, to be no objection to members of military establishment directly under the Government, such as the Arsenal, Gun Carriage Factory, &c., availing themselves of the wards of the General Hospital, due accommodation having been specially provided for such classes at the time when the General Hospital was reconstructed.

5. It was thought best, in consultation with the Military Medical authorities, sometime ago, to provide the commissioned officers accommodation on the civil side of the hospital, where arrangements for nursing, special diet, &c., are more complete. This accommodation is largely availed of by officers in the civil departments of Government as well, and is working well.

No. 2501.

Referred to the Surgeon-General, Her Majesty's Forces, with advertence to his letter, No. 9-O., dated 13th April 1883, for report as to whether there would be any difficulty in affording in the station hospital the superior accommodation alluded to by Surgeon-General Cornish for warrant officers, &c., and whether any objection exists to their being treated in the General (Civil) Hospital.

No. 443. From C. D. MADDEN, Esq., Surgeon-General, Her Majesty's Forces, to Colonel E. L. HANKIN, Secretary to Government, Military Department; dated Ootacamund, 16th May 1883, No. 44-O.

In returning the correspondence forwarded with your memorandum, No. 2501, dated Ootacamund, 2nd May 1883, I have the honor to inform you that there is at present ample accommodation of a superior description in the station hospital, Madras, for the treatment, in separate wards, of sick European warrant officers serving in the Ordnance, Commissariat and other departments.

2. This statement is based on the present average occupation of the building which is dependent on the strength of the garrison of Fort St. George. Should the numbers of that garrison be increased, or should it be necessary at any time to accommodate invalids in order to avoid overcrowding at the Convalescent Depôt, Poonamallee, there might be a difficulty in providing for the class of patients above-mentioned.

3. With regard to the second question in your memorandum, I beg to say that, in my opinion, there would be no objection to the warrant officers of the various departments being treated in the Civil General Hospital.

4. I think it right for me to mention, in connection with this question, that the minimum charge for officers and warrant officers in the Civil General Hospital is rupees two per diem—a higher rate than that laid down in para. 134, Section 8, Bengal Medical Regulations, which are about to be brought into use in this Presidency.

No. 444. ORDER THEREON, 29th May 1883, No. 3037.

The Right Honorable the Governor in Council approves of the suggestion that, in future, the sick details enumerated in Clauses (b) and (c) of para. 2 of Surgeon-General Madden's letter, No. 9-O., dated 13th April 1883, be sent to the hospital of the Native regiment stationed at Rá̀yapuram, and the European warrant and non-commissioned officers referred to in Clause (a), be treated in the Station Hospital, Madras.
