Read the following

Office Note from the Examiner's Accounts

No. 981 of Feb. 28/83

No. 992 of March 2nd.

The examination in question is not compulsory in cases of temporary promotion, but if such temporary promotion extends for more than a year at a time, it will be considered, so far as this examination is concerned, as permanent, and any Assistant Engineer who has not passed will be liable to revert to his permanent grade.

A. 7-907 of 2.3.83 Encl.
N^o 484, Dap, 1st March 83.

The rule is only in force as to permanent promotion.

N^o 992 of 2.3.83 Encl.

Kindly say where this has been ruled and let me have a copy of the ruling. I think it is very likely this is the correct interpretation of the code rule on the subject, but it seems a point which should be definitely settled by Govt.

11/3/83

I don't know that it has ever been definitely ruled, but it is in accordance with universal practice that such examinations should not be enforced for temporary promotion.

Committee I think but as the C wishes in a definite ruling the case will be referred to the Govt.
