READ—the following letter from G. HAMNETT, Esq., Inspector-General of Registration, Madras, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Madras, 28th November 1883, No. 2701 G. :—

I have the honor to enclose extracts from my notes of inspection of the registrar's office at Kurnool, and to request that the sanction of the Government may be obtained, in the Public Works Department, for the preparation of plan and estimate for adding a suitable record-room to the office.

ENCLOSURE.

EXTRACTS from notes of inspection on the office of the registrar of Kurnool, on the 12th November 1883.

By the Inspector-General.—The registrar's office though held in a detached building, his records are kept in a room in the Collector's cutcherry. The room is limited in space, and the arrangement is altogether an inconvenient and objectionable one. The detached building may be slightly enlarged, and the records transferred to it.

Registrar's explanation.—The existing arrangement is attended with much inconvenience. Orders are respectfully solicited as to whether the Executive Engineer at Kurnool may be requested to prepare plan and estimate for adding a new record-room to the detached building.

Should not the shelves provide for suitable shelves or racks for the Records?

D.M.

No provision for shelves or racks in the record room is made in the standard design for a Registrar's office — Their introduction would however be an improvement.

BSM

They ought to be provided I think — here, in this instance the racks from the Vern in Collectar's building will probably be suitable for the new room. — CJ
