I think it will be best in this case for Govt. simply to authorize the articles being kept on stock, as they have to be got rid of shortly and it is not intended to replace them. The "Road Metal" has already been transferred to debit of works, and a good portion of the ven-teak reapers seem to have been used up, as the value first brought on was Rs. 2,000.

This hardly appears to me to be the correct way of treating such stock. The limit of "reserve stock" should not be considered as susceptible of being varied at odd intervals in this way. It is a permanently fixed limit, & altering it would simply allow too much latitude in dealing with stock. Is there no other way of dealing with the question? Cd.

B.W.
The articles of stock given in the S.G. list have hitherto been held as objectionable by C's Office, in the absence of an order of Govt authorising a reserve limit for the Bellary Division.
Under Code para 1971, & S.O. 62 of 1884, no reserve stock should be needed at Bellary, but the articles mentioned have from one cause or another come on to stock.

The orders permitting the S.G. to transfer to stock, certain stores purchased for the R.A. Stables & the Boor Kapatam Cutcherry, & which were afterwards found unsuitable, said in each case that efforts should be made to utilise the articles on other works. The present draft order is required to remove the items from the O.J. Statement. As soon as the stores have been utilised, the reserve can be abolished.

If however it be considered undesirable to sanction a reserve limit, the articles must either be ordered to be sold at once to the best advantage, or allowed to remain objectionable until they can be gradually worked off. Cd. 4-6-84
