And it is hereby lastly agreed and declared by and between the said [Principal] and the said [one surety] and [other sureties] as his the said [Principal's] sureties and the said Secretary of State that on the vacation by the said [Principal] of his said office the above mentioned Government promissory notes for Rs. _____ or any notes that may be submitted therefor as aforesaid shall not be at once returned to him but shall be and remain with the said [the authority with whom the notes are deposited] for the term of six months as security against any loss that may have been incurred by the Secretary of State owing to the neglect or default of the said [Principal] or any other person or persons as aforesaid and which may not have been discovered until after the vacation of his appointment by the said [Principal]; Provided always that the return at any time of the said Government promissory notes shall not be deemed to affect the right of the said Secretary of State to take proceedings upon the said bond against the said [Principal] and [sureties] in case any breach of the conditions of the said bond shall be discovered after the return of the said Government promissory notes.

on the form of words to be used for this purpose, and has re-considered the expediency of the return of the security bonds after a year. It is believed that the insertion of the marginally noted clause at the end of the bond will provide for the return of the securities after six months, and at the same time prevent the liability of Treasurers and others ceasing in consequence of the return of the securities.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council suggests that the form indicated above be used in future, and that, while the promissory notes lodged as security may be returned after six months, the bond should be retained permanently, or until it is certain that there is no necessity for keeping it any longer. It is to be understood that the form settled in the Resolution of 2nd September 1882, as also the form now prescribed, are only models, Local Governments and Administrations having full power to fix the precise terms of such bonds without reference to the Government of India.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the Resolution be communicated to the several Departments of the Government of India; the several Local Governments and Administrations; the Comptroller and Auditor General; the several Accountants General and Comptrollers; and the several heads of Departments administered by the Government of India in this Department.

OBSERVATIONS.—In the Resolution of 2nd September 1882, a form of security bond to be taken from Treasurers and other officials entrusted with the charge of public money was suggested as a model. In the Resolution of 28th May last, it was decided that bonds deposited by Treasurers or other officials should be retained by Government for a year, and other securities for six months, after they vacate their appointments, and that words providing for such retention should in future be introduced in the bonds before signature.

2. The Government of India has lately had under consideration the form of words to be used for this purpose, and has re-considered the expediency of the return of the security bonds after a year. It is believed that the insertion of the marginally noted clause at the end of the bond will provide for the return of the securities after six months, and at the same time prevent the liability of Treasurers and others ceasing in consequence of the return of the securities.

And it is hereby lastly agreed and declared by and between the said [Principal] and the said [one surety] and [other sureties] as his the said [Principal's] sureties and the said Secretary of State that on the vacation by the said [Principal] of his said office of the above mentioned Government promissory notes for Rs. or any notes that may be submitted therefor as aforesaid shall not be at once returned to him but shall be and remain with the said [the authority with whom the notes are deposited] for the term of six months as security against any loss that may have been incurred by the Secretary of State owing to the neglect or default of the said [Principal] or any other person or persons as aforesaid and which may not have been discovered until after the vacation of his appointment by the said [Principal]; Provided always that the return at any time of the said Government promissory notes shall not be deemed to affect the right of the said Secretary of State to take proceedings upon the said bond against the said [Principal] and [sureties] in case any breach of the conditions of the said bond shall be discovered after the return of the said Government promissory notes.
