Under G.O. No 14 W dated 7th January 184, the building called the Granary in Palamcottah was sold by public auction in March 1884 for Rs 710; the guard room attached was not sold as it was in use as an office for the attached officer at Palamcottah. This building (26½ ft × 23½ ft) is not now required, as there is ample accommodation in the old military hospital

to

hospital where the Executive Engineer's Office now is and I request the Sanction of Government to Sell it for Rs 300 to Appasawmy Pillay who purchased the main building, the Granary. I enclose the Executive Engineer's report and the plan of the building; it will, I consider, be better for the building to be sold in this way than by public auction as there is not likely to be any Competition for it.

The Vice-President of the Palamcottah municipality, on the other hand, applies for the transfer of the artificer's workshop † for the preservation of kerosine oil. There will then remain the gun-shed,‡ which I propose to retain as a Public Works smith's workshop.

I further beg to inform you that there are three other buildings, besides the above, which also require to be disposed of, viz., the commissariat godown, the late divisional office, and the late sub-magistrate's cutcherry. In these the first, though unoccupied, is situated entirely within the compound of the police barracks without a separate entrance. The Superintendent of Police requests to have this also transferred to him. The other two are not required by any department, and no special man is employed to look after these. Under these circumstances I request you will be good enough to obtain the sanction of Government for the transfer of the four buildings above mentioned to the departments referred to, and to dispose of the other two by public auction, as the Collector, on a reference made by me, stated that he does not require them.
