

Some correspondence (either do. or official) passed on the subject alluded to in para 2
Major Moore's letter.

There was an assurance given by Sir Frederick Roberts (or on his behalf) that the casemates lately occupied by the Artillery in Fort St.
George should be available for the Band.

Is that correspondence
in your office?

READ—the following paper :—

From Major G. M. J. MOORE, R.A., Military Secretary to His Excellency the Governor, to the Secretary to Government, Military Department, dated Madras, 20th February 1886, No. 206.

In forwarding the correspondence as per margin, I have the honor again to urge that suitable quarters be provided for His Excellency the Governor's band.

Letter, No. 136, dated 21st November 1885, from Military Secretary to His Excellency, to the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, E.D.

2. There seems no probability of the casemates being available. I need not reiterate what has been so often submitted as to the unsuitability of the present quarters.

Letter, No. 3136, dated 27th November 1885, from the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, E.D., to the Military Secretary to His Excellency.

3. I would therefore beg that Government may be moved to erect suitable quarters outside the Fort, and suggest that twelve blocks of the standard pattern for detached married quarters for European troops be built.

4. These would accommodate the bandmen, and a separate quarter should be built for the Bandmaster Serjeant. The Superintendent receives presidency house-rent and provides his own quarters. It is a question for Government whether they would build quarters on the same site for him.

5. In addition to these, one large room would be required for practice; this might also serve as a library and recreation room.

6. As to the site, if I may be allowed to suggest, I would point out that there seems to be most eligible ground on the west bank of the Buckingham Canal opposite the Civil Engineering College.
