OFFICE NOTE No.

To W. No 14740 of 13/5
your No. 1576 of 6th May

The contradiction between the S.L.
statement and ours is only apparent.

Ramnad sent in a separate bill for Salanis for March, and as salary bills are sent in by divisions only (Code ⁴⁶⁸ ~~486~~) we supposed that there had been some further order, not yet communicated to us, which cancelled previous arrangements abolishing the division, and we accordingly asked for sanction to deal with the bill as that of a Division.
The true explanation seems to have been that Ramnad made a mistake in the matter of the bill.

2. In my^o (note No 45 of 19th April
I did not in any way suggest that the S.L. had not carried out the order of Govt; and I had no reason to think

In his office note No. 1175 dated 19th April 1887 the Examiner of P.W. Accounts reported to Genl. that the S.E. VI Circle had submitted a salary bill for the Ramnad Division for March/87 requiring orders of Genl. to enable him to audit the same. Upon this, G.O. No. 1175 W dated 29th April 1887 was passed authorising the Examiner to audit the bill understanding the same to refer to the Ramnad Division Establishment. The S.E. now points out that the bill in question did not refer to the Ramnad Division as represented by the Examiner, but contained claims for the Sub-Divisional establishment as sanctioned in G.O. No. 942 W dated 28th March 1887.

The Examiner explains that as salary bills are received for each Division under Code para 468, he supposed that the bill in question referred to the original Ramnad Division and not to the new Sub-Division. The bill when received by the Examiner should have been compared with the sanctioned establishment for the Sub-Division to avoid the mistake which necessitated the issue of G.O. No. 1175 W dated 29th April 1887.

The accompanying draft order is submitted for approval.
