From

To
The Superintending Engineer
First Circle

Sir,

I have the honor to bring to your notice that I was granted leave to Europe on medical certificate for 6 months, but on my return to duty it had to be extended by one month & one day – I had assumed that my leave began from the date of my departure from India, (18th June 1878), while it was actually dated from the day that I handed over charge of my duties, & proceeded for

for medical advice, namely, the 16th May 1878. Thus it will be seen that no Subsidiary leave was granted to me, & that one month & one day spent in travelling, & under medical supervision in India has been counted as leave in Europe.

2 After enquiry, I was informed by the Examiner P.W. accts that as the period between the date of my relief and Embarkation was in excess of the maximum Subsidiary leave, allowable under the rules, (namely 30 days), my leave was held to have commenced in India, but on looking over the Civil Leave Code, I find that under rule 5 Section 64 which appears to me to be exactly applicable to my case, my Subsidiary leave should have been prolonged by the period I was under the observation of the medical officer in Madras

3 I handed over charge of my duties in the Godavari Western Division on the 16th May 1878, and proceeded to Rajahmundry for medical aid, and under recommendation of the medical officer proceeded to Madras, where I was under medical supervision (of Dr Thompson) for a period of 13 days after which I went before a medical Board in Madras & obtained my medical certificate & I think I left Madras by a steamer on the 18th June 1878. Thus it appears to me, under the rule quoted above, I am entitled to Subsidiary Leave up to 18th June/78, the date of my embarkation. I

I beg therefore to request that you will obtain sanction of Govt. that my leave shall be considered to have begun from that date.

4 If, however, this is not approved (the amount of subsidiary leave that would then have to be granted being in excess of the maximum allowable namely 30 days) to at any rate consider~~ed~~ it to have begun from the 15th June 1878 under the proviso~~s~~ to Sectn. 67 of C. L. code

The only reason, & I think it is a sufficient one, that I can produce for not having brought this to notice immediately on my return from the leave is that I had only lately joined the Deptt. and was not aware of the rules of the Civil leave Code.

Your O. N. No. 1308 C. dated 7th. April 1887

In my opinion the proviso to Section 67 of the Civil Leave Code is to be regarded not as a new rule but as a correction of an obvious defect or omission in the original rule, to prevent the injustice which might in certain cases be caused by the strict application of the original unmodified rule. In fact I look upon the introduction of the proviso as an admission that, before its introduction, cases might have arisen which it might be the duty of Govt. to provide for by special orders setting aside (in such cases) the strict provisions of the rule.

I think therefore that Govt. is entitled to make the order asked for by Mr Jopp if they consider that the circumstances justify the concession.

The proviso to Section 67 referred to in your note is understood to have been in force before Mr. Jopp took his leave, and is, therefore, it is supposed, applicable to the case. Please say whether you think the provisions of Rule 5, Section 64, may be held, specially, to apply to the case. It is considered ~~the~~ circumstances justify even that concession, if practicable - could not, I think, be applied — even if retrospective effect could be given to it — without the certificate of the Medical Board. Rule 5 Sec. 64 is a substantive addition to the proviso in Sec. 67 — it gives extension of subsidiary leave instead of non-forfeiture only — and therefore I do not think it could, in any case, be applied retrospectively.

The decision of the question raised by Mr Jopp, one way or the other, cannot affect his present furlough, because that furlough (15 months) was granted on the certificate of the Exr that it was due on the date of application -

In making his ~~of~~ calculation, the Exr would of course count as furlough already taken, the one month & one day which Mr Jopp lost in 1878 through over-staying his subsidiary leave -

This concession asked is a very extraordinary one: ~~the~~ we are asked to go back 8 or 9 years to correct what is said to have been an error – to give subsidiary leave 9 years after it was earned. We must at least be satisfied that the proviso strictly applies. Beyond Mr J's own statement made at the end of his second letter we have no evidence that he was "prevented by sickness from embarking" before the 15th June. at least I can

The ruling in Section 64, rule 5, of the Civil Leave Code was not promulgated till Octobe 1878, whereas Mr. Jopp proceeded on furlough in the preceding June

It cannot therefore be held to apply to the case. Even had the rule retrospective effect the absence of the ~~requisite~~ special certificate of detention by a Medical Board or officer would bar its application to the case.

2. In the circumstances reported, however, there appears to be no objection to Mr. Jopp's being allowed the benefit of the proviso to section 67 of the + Civil Leave Code as a special case, inasmuch as his case complies with its conditions and the proviso was in existence before Mr. Jopp applied for furlough.

+ vide the note under the proviso.

3. The Government are therefore pleased to direct that Mr. Jopp's furlough shall be held to have commenced in India on the 15th June 1878, the day on which his subsidiary leave expired.
