Read—the following paper :—

Office note from the Examiner, Public Works Accounts, dated Madras, 1st May 1888, No. 1584.

I beg to refer the following case for the orders of Government :—

1. G. Sriramulu, lock superintendent on Rs. 10 per mensem, Kistna Eastern division, was promoted to Rs. 12 per mensem in the same capacity from 17th February 1888. On the date of his promotion he had exceeded the age of 25 years.

2. Under section 122 of the Civil Pension Code an officer cannot count any portion of his inferior service on the superior scale, and as the limit of age (25 years) prescribed by Public Works Code para. 176 applies only to officers in the superior service, it has been the practice of this office to require the orders of Government in the case of all officers in inferior service promoted to superior service after the age of 25 years, and accordingly the pay of this lock superintendent has been admitted provisionally only pending sanction of Government to his appointment, he having exceeded the age of 25 years.

3. It seems to me, however, very doubtful whether the above interpretation is in accordance with the intention of the rules, and I doubt whether sanction of Government is necessary in cases of promotion. If a man aged, say 45, is appointed at once to superior pensionable service, he will in all probability acquire a claim to pension without having given the amount of service that the State may fairly expect to get out of each of its servants, and sanction of Government is therefore required for such appointments; but if a man at the age of 45 is promoted to superior service, having already rendered, say 25 years' inferior service, there is the set-off that if he wishes to claim any pension for superior service, he must sacrifice the whole of his inferior service, vide section 122, Civil Pension Code.

4. In the former case, the man will be pensioned for, say, 15 years' service, and in the latter nominally for 15, but really for 40 years, and the State is therefore not liable to be put to any undue pensionary charge on his account.

5. I solicit orders of Government on this point.

ENCLOSURE

Proceedings of the Madras Government, Financial Department, dated 3th January 1880 No. 25.

Twenty-five Years' Order.

Proceedings of the Board of Revenue, dated 26th November 1879, No. 11103 (Miscellaneous).
Read the following letter from W. S. FOSTER, Esq., Collector of the Godavari District, to the Acting Secretary to the Board of Revenue, dated Cocanada, 11th November 1879, No. 309:—

G.O., dated 15th September 1879, No. 3772, Financial Department, directs that no person, whose age exceeds twenty-five years, shall, in future, be admitted into the Public Service without the previous sanction of Government being obtained for such admission. I am under the impression that the persons already in service in the lower grades, such as Peons, Attenders, and Peon's Gamastahs may be promoted to the higher grades, if they are otherwise qualified, even though they might have exceeded twenty-five years of age. Am I right? If, however, they are not eligible for promotion, I take this opportunity of requesting that persons who have already filled acting posts in an office for, say, a year, may be allowed to be brought on the permanent establishment as occasion arises, as it will otherwise be very hard to turn out a man after he has spent many months of arduous work under the full expectation of getting into Government service. It so happens that if the rule is strictly acted on, a man that has qualified himself by tests, that has acquired useful acquaintance with office work, having been a copyist for more than two years, and that has actually acted, and is still acting, in a permanent post with credit, has to be now ousted from office. Certainly the rule, I believe, did not intend this.

Submitted to Government in continuation of Board's Proceedings, dated 10th November 1879, No. 3155.

GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Regimental Institutions.

Read the following :—

No. 140. Military Despatch from the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Honorable the Governor-General of India in Council ; dated London, 22nd March 1888, No. 64.

I have considered in Council your Excellency's Despatch, dated 29th November 1887, No. 219, in regard to certain measures which you propose to adopt in view to increase the comfort and well-being of the British soldier in India.

2. I have perused with much pleasure the reports and correspondence forwarded by you. I gather that the proposed measures are two-fold,—first, the re-arrangement and improvement of the existing refreshment and recreation resources of the soldier in barracks; and, secondly, the abolition, in respect of soldiers hereafter arriving in India, of the daily dram of spirits hitherto allowed under regulation. The result of this measure will be that, in a few years, the issue of the regulation dram will have altogether ceased. The issue will, however, take place, if deemed necessary, when troops are on field service.

3. The first proposal involves the consolidation of existing regimental establishments by the formation of "Regimental Institutes," consisting of two departments, the "Refreshment" and the "Recreation," the former to comprise canteen, coffee shop, regimental stores, and a supper room, and the latter a branch coffee shop, recreation and reading rooms, library, skittle alley, quoit ground, and shooting gallery. The question of a theatre is to be separately considered. Use is to be made as far as possible of existing buildings; but where no suitable accommodation is available, the needful buildings will have to be constructed by Government. The expense of such new furniture and utensils as may be required, in the first instance, will also have to be borne by Government. What the whole expense will be is not yet known, but none will be incurred until all the details have been worked out and regular estimates submitted.

4. I have much pleasure in communicating to your Excellency my general approval of the scheme which you have submitted, but I request that before any expense is incurred a detailed report, with approved estimates, may be submitted to me for my sanction.

5. The prospective abolition of the daily dram has my entire approval, and I cannot but think that the concentration under one roof of the soldier's eating and drinking resorts, together with the general improvement in the accommodation and appliances of those places, will be duly appreciated, and will operate beneficially in promoting his comfort and sobriety. There seems to be every reasonable probability that if facilities are afforded to the soldier for obtaining spirituous beverages with his food, instead of only separately as at present, he will, in the ordinary nature of things, and himself of them. He will find that his health will be improved; and very possibly his officers may discern a corresponding increase in his military efficiency.

6. I agree with you in thinking that it will be as well for the temperance refreshment room to be kept at a distance, or at any rate entirely separate from the general regimental restaurant.

7. I enclose copy of correspondence* with the War Office, from which you will observe that the Secretary of State for War and His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief both cordially approve of the proposals which you have submitted, but His Royal Highness expresses a decided preference to the institution being called Regimental Institute instead of Club. In this opinion I entirely concur.

M 12499.

INDIA OFFICE,
2nd January 1888.

Sir,

I am directed, by the Secretary of State for India in Council, to forward, for any observations the Secretary of State for War and His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief may desire to offer thereon, copy of a despatch from the Government of India, dated 29th November 1887, No. 219, reporting certain measures which the Government propose to adopt with the view of increasing the comfort and well-being of the British soldier in India.

It will be observed that the Government propose—

- (a) The formation of Regimental Institutes combining under one management the present refreshment and recreation establishments.
- (b) The prospective abolition, except on field service, of the daily dram of spirits now issued to British troops.

Viscount Cross has little doubt that the belief of the Government of India in the advantages which, under the peculiar conditions of service in India, may be anticipated from these measures will be shared by Mr. Secretary Stanhope and His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief.

WAR OFFICE,
February 1888.

Sir,

In reply to your letter dated the 2nd January last forwarding, for the observations of the Secretary of State for War and His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief, the copy of a despatch from the Government of India, dated the 29th November 1887, No. 219, I am directed by Mr. Secretary Stanhope to inform you, for the information of the Secretary of State for India, that, after consultation with His Royal Highness, he is glad to be able to express his complete approval of the proposal made both for the formation in European corps in India of Regimental Institutes, and for the prospective abolition, except on field service, of the daily dram of spirits now issued to British troops.

His Royal Highness has pointed out the desirability of the organization for the recreation, &c., of the men being termed the "Regimental Institute," rather than that it should be called a "Club," and in this conviction Mr. Secretary Stanhope entirely concurs.

Looking to the great advantages which will accrue to the British soldier in India from the introduction of the proposals under consideration, the Secretary of State for War urges most strongly upon Lord Cross their adoption at as early a date as practicable.

I have, &c.,
