The Govt agree with the Examiner that the lump sum settlement with the contractor was not a sufficient disposal of the question of the loss of the line.

2. Both Mr Allen & the Contractor, Mr Ryan, appear to have acted in good faith, but as soon as it was found that the line was of bad quality, the latter ought to have re:

reported the matter. It is now impossible to prove whether the lime was or was not used up by the Contractor, and in any case the Govt must have lost its value if it perished while in their possession. The action of the Supply Commr in charging off the loss to the works is confirmed.
