Sir,

From correspondence between the General Officer Commanding Ceded Districts and the Superintending Engineer 3d Circle recently submitted to the Commander in Chief, His Excellency learns that the Examiner of Public Work accounts objects to charges being incurred in that Department in connection with the supply and repairs of Punkahs to the station Hospital at Bellary on the grounds that "Hospitals" are not mentioned in the list of buildings to be supplied with Punkahs by the Public Works Department in section i appendix E Public Works Department Code.

2. Sir Charles Arbuthnot has no doubt whatever that under the designation of "Barracks" in the Appendix in question Hospitals and every Building in Barracks of British Troops to which Punkahs are allowed by Regulation were intended to be included, and he would therefore suggest that to remove all doubts in future as to the Buildings to which the P.W. Deptt. should supply Punkahs (with suspending ropes or rods) and Punkah Connecting Bars a note should be added to section i Appendix E of the P.W.D. Code, explaining that under the Head "Barracks" the Buildings marginally noted are included.

†Memo No 8/264 d/4th April 1888 from Senior Medical Officer

Ltr No 28 d/7th April 1888 from the Exec: Engr Bellary Division

In forwarding the correspondence as per margin for your information relative to certain repairs required to Punkahs in the Station Hospital at Bellary applied for by the Senior Medical Officer, I have the honor to inform you that some time before the Commencement of the present hot weather the Executive Engineer was requested to rehang the punkahs in the Station Hospital which had been taken down by the Public Works Department at the end of the Punkah season 1887 at the request of the Senior Medical Officer then in charge which he considered necessary for the better ventilation of the wards, but the Executive Engineer intimated that he was unable to comply with the requisition to rehang the punkahs as the Public Works Examiner had objected to the charge in the previous year; the punkahs had therefore to be hung up and put in working order by the Hospital Coolies

The work of hanging the punkahs having been carried out by men unskilled in such work and under great disadvantages, the punkah do not work satisfactorily and a number of them require repair to the Canvas Covering of the frames, and to the suspending ropes &c

but as will be seen from the attached letter from the Executive Engineer, that Officer now states he is unable to carry out the necessary repairs.

Public Works Code para 1081 and also General order of 1870 page 204 which make the Bengal Barrack Regulations applicable to Madras with regard to punkahs have been pointed out but as punkahs are not included in Appendix E. P.W Code to be provided by the Public Works Department specially to Hospitals the Executive Engineer maintains he is unable to prepare them for reasons above stated.

I have the honor to solicit therefore you will be so good as to instruct me as to how and by which Department the repairs to the punkahs in the Hospital should be executed, if not by the Public Works Department.

Punkahs in Hospitals are Fixtures and should therefore apparently be dealt with under para 1144 Public Works Code.

Return of the Correspondence is requested

With reference to your letter No. 28 of 7th April 1888 on the subject of repairs to punkahs in the Station Hospital, I have the honor, by order, to point out that punkahs both in barracks and hospitals are fixtures and by paras 1081 and 1144 of P.W. Code, all Military buildings with their fixtures are to be constructed and repaired by the Executive Engineer except those specially authorised to be executed by the Barrack Department in para 1081.

I have to request therefore you will be good enough to inform without delay whether after the perusal of the above quoted regulations, you are still unable to attend to the repairs under reference. Should you reply in the negative and as the case is very urgent, please inform whether you will be able to pass the bills for the repairs to the punkahs in Hospital provided the work is carried out by the Barrack Department in the usual way.

Should you not be able to comply with this arrangement the whole subject will have to be referred to Head Quarters for decision.

It is very difficult to say what the intention of the Code is as to repairs of punkahs for hospitals (and barracks).

2. Code para 1081 lays down that petty repairs to military buildings and fixtures not including punkahs are to be carried out by the Barrack Master (as agent of the P.W.D.) and then, at the end of the para, it says, "repairs to public buildings and their fixtures, other than those mentioned above, will be dealt with by the [P.W.] department". Owing to the peculiar way in which punkahs are excluded in the first two lines it is very difficult to say whether the end of the para means that punkahs are to be repaired by the P.W.D. or not: for punkahs are "mentioned above", but they are not mentioned in the body of the para. The clause may therefore very well be read either way.

3. As there is nothing especially difficult in the work of repairing punkahs, it would seem that, whatever may have been the reason for excluding punkahs, these were not excluded because the Barrack Master could not repair them, and the presumption seems to be that it was not intended that the P.W.D. should repair them.

4. On the other hand it appears from Appendix E. (pages 52 and 53) that the P.W.D. should supply punkahs and connecting bars and suspending rods or ropes therefor, and apparently everything except fringes. It seems reasonable to infer from Appendix E. that punkahs for barracks should be repaired, except as regards the fringes, by the P.W.D.: the Commissariat

To

Department is to supply the fringes, but I do not know whose business it would be to attach them to the frames. Appendix E. however makes no mention of hospitals.

5. Appendix E. was introduced into the Code comparatively recently, and the conflict between it and Code para 1081, as regards punkahs for barracks (not hospitals) seems to have been overlooked. Para 1081 had always I understand been interpreted to mean that repairs of punkahs were not to be executed by the P.W.D.; and Appendix E. was not understood to modify the rule.

6. It is for Government to settle what the rule shall be, and Code para 1081 and Appendix E. can then be modified accordingly. I see no reason why the P.W.D. should not supply punkahs for all military buildings, including officers' quarters, and repair them in all such buildings excepting officers' quarters (this exception is in accordance with Appendix E.), the P.W.D. obtaining the fringes, whether for new supplies or repairs, from the Commissariat Department; nor do I see any reason why petty repairs of punkahs should thus be excluded from the petty repairs to be executed through the agency of the Barrack Master: there may however be some reason for this.

In forwarding herewith for the approval of Government draft standing orders based on Government of India letter No. 891 M. W. dated 14th. May 1888 communicated with G. O. No. 1590 W. dated 31st. May 1888, I beg to invite attention to my office note No. 1571 dated 31st. May 1888, and to inquire whether Code para 1081 may now be altered by omitting the asterisk and marginal note and thus permitting petty repairs to punkahs to be carried out by barrack masters.

2. The exception in the Madras Code was based on article 2242 of the Madras Army Regulations, now obsolete, and as it is not reproduced in the Army Regulations India or in the Government of India Code there appears to be no valid reason why it should any longer be retained. If however it is considered desirable to continue the exception, retaining the asterisk and marginal note, the last clause of para 108I should, I think, be modified so as to make it clear that punkahs are not excluded from the fixtures to be repaired by the department.

3. I would also bring to notice that the Executive Engineer Presidency Division in reply to an inquiry made by me regarding the existing practice in his division in respect to the execution of petty repairs to military buildings, states that in his opinion an addition might be made to Code para 108I authorising the Executive Engineer to revise the Barrack Master's rates when they exceed those prevailing in the division. If Government approve of the alteration and addition to Code para 108I suggested above, the necessary standing orders will be drafted.

SIR,

In returning the papers referred under Mil. No. 6595 of 28th ultimo, I have the honor by order to report that it would seem desirable to alter para 1081 of the Madras Public Works Code by the omission of the asterisk and marginal note as suggested by the Public Works Department.

The necessity for the addition to para 1081 of the Code proposed at the instance of the Executive Engineer Presidency division does not appear to be distinct unless it is to be understood that the power given by the para to the Executive Engineers to examine and check the various items of Barrack Masters estimates does not give them the authority to revise the rates in such estimates
