Under section 67 of the Civil Leave Code, the matter seems to be entirely one for Government to decide; it is merely a question of whether the reason was an adequate one, and it is for Government to decide this according to discretion.

FOR ORDERS.

In the enclosed letter from Colonel. Vibart he states that he has sent an official letter asking, as a special case, that his subsidiary leave might be extended to the 15th Novr, that is, for it to reach 16 days in place of the 10 days usually allowed.

As the official letter has not been received, I act "on the private letter in which the case is fully stated. It is briefly thus:—

Colonel Vibart handed over charge on the 29th October, intending to leave Madras

Please quote the section or rule in the Civil Leave Code which enables the Govt. to extend the subsidiary leave. I know that it is held in the Civil Dept. that all we can do is to direct that the furlough shall commence from the conclusion of the subsidiary leave, & be taken as furlough in India until the date of embarkation. This course would save Col. Vibart from forfeiture of his subsidiary leave, and would be sufficiently liberal seeing that there was no adequate reason for his not embarking on the 9th Novr.

H. M. decides that under section 67 of the Civil Leave Code the Special leave to begin at end of Sub 7 leave on the 31st so as to reach Bombay on the 2nd and sail the same day by the P.O. Mail Steamer "Rome".

Via Brindisi.

Wednesday the 30th was the night of the cyclone and in consequence of the bad weather Colonel Vibart put off his departure until the 1st Nov^r. and thereby lost his passage in the "Rome".

The next P.O. Steamer that went direct to Brindisi was the "Arcadia" on the 16th Nov^r. a fortnight after the "Rome", there was of course a Mail Steamer that left on the 9th Nov^r. but if Colonel Vibart had gone by that he would have had the discomfort of changing steamers at Aden and rather than do this he delayed his departure until the 16th.

Vibart for deferring his departure for a fortnight is an adequate

My dear Mead

I yesterday
write you an official asking that my Subsidiary Leave should be extended to 15th Nov & my Special Leave commence from 16th - I handed over as you know on 29th Oct so my Subsidiary Leave began on 30th - I have furthermore that I am only entitled to 10 days of it (including Sunday) 11 days & that if I have not embarked at the close of the Subsidiary Leave became Specimen

Having been down on 29th I intended to leave Lefkoudas on 31st, so as to reach Bombay on 2nd Nov. I leave by the P & O "Rome" for Brindisi.
On 31st came the cyclone.
I was unable to leave Lefkoudas on that day, as my wife & child were unable to get to the station & I was hampered by the P & O travelling agent who was travelling - so unwillingly I had to put off my departure till 1st Nov. - I was

I had to
in the best steamer due to Brindisi - which is the "Cecilia" m/b of course if I had been aware of this circumstance I could either have started a day or so earlier - or I could have remained for a heading over change
till Burton's arrival I request you will as soon as you can fax the
the steamer office
- being here up to 15th inclusive. so that may commence

from 16th Inst
when I took Special Leave. I had more than 2 months

Privilege Leave due.

The fact of my taking Special Leave cancels
my claim to Privilege so that - I feel the indulgence I ask (extension of Subsidiary Leave by 6 days) is not very great.

Yours very truly
