It has been usual
hitherto to bring to Olatemund, six men of the General Branch
in addition to the defacer, and to employ a seventh
man for the season
here.

This year, owing to the smallness of the grant for temporary labour,
I have endeavoured
to get the work done
without the seventh
man, but the men
now complain the
work falling heavily
on them.

The six men are distributed as follows:-

2 in house

1 upstairs with the defacer to attend to the two rooms.

1 in office to carry papers up & down stairs, leaving

2 men for post, circulation & conveyance of local

of 2 special covers.

When the monsoon sets in, the out-door work will be felt more severely.

Sanction is therefore solicited to the employment of the usual temporary man.

The cost will be less than bringing up one of the permanent men from Madras - & the latter course would leave the Madras office most handicapped.

Draft submitted for approval.
