READ—the following paper :—

From Brigadier-General M. PROTHEROE, C.B., C.S.I., Quartermaster-General, to the General Officers Commanding Districts, dated Ootacamund, 10th June 1889, Circular No. 519 Barrack.

Referring to the instructions contained in paras. 2229 and 2231, Madras Army Regulations (now obsolete), and pending the issue of a Code of Barrack Regulations applicable to all Presidencies, the following is published for information and guidance :—

I. General officers will assemble standing Barrack Committees at all military stations within the limits of their command as follows :—

(a) At stations where European troops are quartered—

- (1) A senior officer, British service.
- (2) An officer commanding a British regiment or battery.
- (3) The Barrackmaster, or where there is no Barrackmaster, an officer of the district staff or other staff officer.
- (4) The Executive Engineer (or in his unavoidable absence, a subordinate officer appointed by him) to be in attendance when necessary, to aid the committee with his professional advice.

(b) At stations where no European troops are quartered—

- (1) The officer commanding the station (not being the district commander).
- (2) Another senior officer of the Indian service.
- (3) An officer of the district staff or other staff officer of the station.
- (4) The Executive Engineer (or in his unavoidable absence a subordinate officer appointed by him) to be in attendance when necessary, to aid
the committee with his professional advice.

II. The standing Barrack Committee will consider and report on all important questions, such as the requirements for the accommodation of troops, the selection of sites for military buildings, and the furnishing of such special reports as may be called for from time to time by Government or the Commander-in-Chief. On the occasion of the selection of sites for military buildings, the senior medical officer of the cantonment should attend the committee, and departmental officers should invariably attend whenever the interests of their departments are affected, either directly or indirectly.

III. When the proceedings of the committee relate to the selection of a site for a fortified post; to a site required in, or near, a fort; or as part of the accommodation for the location of a new corps at a station, the opinion of the Superintending Engineer should be recorded thereon. The proceedings should then be submitted, without delay, through the General Officer Commanding the district, to the Quartermaster-General, for the approval of the Commander-in-Chief before building is commenced. On other occasions the General Officer Commanding will approve of the proceedings of the committee.

IV. The committee will also consider and report on sites for hutting lines for Native troops.
