Simla, the 29th October 1889.

Draftsmen and Estimators.

Read—

The following extract from the Report by the Committee on Public Works Accounts :—
376. Draftsmen and Estimators.—It has been represented to the Committee that a considerable amount of the time of Executive Engineers is often occupied in such work as taking out quantities from plans and sections, which can be done quite as well by efficiently trained draftsmen, and the Committee recommends that the attention of Principals of Engineering Colleges in India be drawn to this point with a view to the education of men specially as draftsmen and estimators. It should also be noted, that in many cases men who can take out quantities, are useless as office estimators, on account of a defective knowledge of English.

RESOLUTION.—The Government of India agrees with the Committee in considering that much of the labour involved in the purely mechanical work of estimating could be performed by low paid agency, a test check of the calculations being made by superior officers before the estimates are submitted for sanction. The attention of Principals of Engineering Colleges in India will be invited to this matter in view to men being specially trained for this class of work.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the foregoing be communicated to Local Gov-
