Enclosures. 1 Mr Hambly's letter no 125 dated 19.5.90 with 1 enclosure

Sir,

I regret having to report to you for your remarks the behaviour of Supervisor Mr Hambly.

2. As you are doubtless aware every effort is being made to complete the Sitanagaram Under Sluices before the ensuing freshes. As far as the Progress actually on the Sluices is concerned, it no doubt will be completed in time, but on enquiring this morning from Mr Hambly, I ascertained that of the Shutters which are being worked up in the Shops sufficient only for 5 vents out of 15, will be Completed in time.

3. Mr Hambly has been fully aware of the urgency of the work and as the indent was sent in to him for the Shutters as far back as December/88. I Considered it inexcusable that the Shops should thus have failed and rendered useless the hard work in this very trying and hot weather imposed on the whole staff out of doors in getting the Sluices ready to receive the Shutters. Mr Hambly did not ever at any time intimate that the Shutters would not be ready.

4. I therefore Considered this all so unsatisfactory that I remarked that I considered it a disgrace to the workshops that the Shutters were not ready.

Whereupon Mr Hambly rose from his seat and before certain clerks & others in his office became extremely insubordinate in his manner, action & language. When I was able to get in a word, I remarked that I thought it inadvisable for him to address me in that way but that at any rate it would be as well not to do so before subordinate & clerks. To this Mr Hambly replied "You had better send them out then", and continued to talk with the same loud voice and offensive & impertinent manner.

5. I was not able to make any remarks — myself owing to Mr Hambly's flow of speech so remained until he had — finished and then went about some other duties.

6. The gist of Mr Hambly's speech observati was that he did not Consider himself a disgrace (please to note that no such imputation was ever made) on the other hand he was proud of himself and would not put up with such criticism on my part.

7. I must also make special reference to one of his assertions — namely that my adverse remarks on the workshops & himself were due to my having taken a personal dislike to him which he had observed from my very first taking charge. I need hardly say that in this Mr Hambly is greatly mistaken and that I have much esteem for him personally and officially and have invariably endeavoured to shew it. But such regard for him, I cannot allow to restrict my freedom of remark or action towards him, when I am of opinion that work under his charge is progressing unsatisfactorily.

Mr Hambly no doubt would be capable of appreciating the position had it not hitherto apparently been the custom for his superior officers to allow their private feelings to interfere with their official actions. For such reasons I would not, then even now have brought this matter to your notice, had it not been the second time that Mr Hambly has openly behaved in an insubordinate & impertinent manner.

8. Under these circumstances, although Mr Hambly's behaviour has been such, I would suggest~~ing~~ your taking only such notice of it as to prevent its recurrence. It is obvious that the Executive Engineer's authority cannot be set at nought in this way or respect for his official position so utterly ignored by Mr Hambly & without correction if any efficiency is to be expected in the workshops.

~~I have the honor to be~~

Sir

~~Your most obt Servant~~

P.S. Since writing the above, I have received the enclosed letter to your address from Mr Hambly, you will observe that the letter is not

— ~~Ex: Engineer~~

— ~~Eastern Dn~~ B.

Compd

not directed to me his immediate superior but to you. From this you might infer that Mr Hambly had applied to me to recommend his furlough and that I had refused. This however is not the case; the subject has never been brought forward by him. The letter must have been written by him shortly after committing the offence of which I complain. It will in itself be sufficient evidence of the spirit of insubordination & impertinence that Mr Hambly exhibited towards me on the occasion of which I have written above.

The letter is not written in the respectful tone that should be observed by a Supervisor when addressing a Superintending Engineer and his addressing it to the Supdg Engineer and not as he should have to the Ex: Engineer, is either intended as a mark of disrespect to the latter or else implies that the Ex: Engineer would not have dealt in a straightforward manner with his application. In any case it evinces the spirit of insubordination that appears to pale Mr. Hambly's behaviour,
