From Captain M. C. BARTON, R.E., Commanding Bengal Sappers and Miners, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department; dated Roorkee, 25th September 1889, No. 530-H.

I have the honor to bring the following matter to your notice.

2. Public Works Department Code, Vol. I, 1886, Chapter V, Para. 81, distinctly lays down that permission to marry can be given to Royal Engineer soldiers serving in the department and on the unattached list by the officer under whom they are serving if a military officer.

3. The War Office object to this, see extract herewith, and maintain that no one has the right to grant permission to marry to soldiers in the Royal Engineers, except His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief.

4. Unless some steps be taken by the proper authorities to adjust this anomaly, complications will inevitably follow to the detriment of men getting married under Public Works Department rules.

5. I have the honor, therefore, to request that you will kindly let me know what you consider the best course under the circumstances.

Extract from Minute, dated Horse Guards, War Office, 23th March 1889, from the Deputy Adjutant-General, Royal Engineers, to the Commandant, Bengal Sappers and Miners.

Leave to marry should not have been granted to this non-commissioned officer * without reference to this office. Please see Corps Order, No. 17016, Sergeant L. Lee, R.E., Unattached List. No. 500, dated 11th July 1886, and also Queen's Regulations, Sec. VII, Para. 249 (a), as amended by Army Order No. 294 of July 1888.
