2. With regard to those officers who wished to be paid their arrears of furlough pay in England and whose claims were noted on by the India Office, a second statement No. II is forwarded, herewith, showing the payments made under the orders of the Secretary of State compared with the amount shown to be due by the Audit officers.

3. A third statement is forwarded of officers whose arrears of furlough allowances had been adjusted by the Secretary of State without any reference to this country. In connection with both these statements I am to forward an extract, para. 3, from a memorandum by the Accountant-General, India Office, regarding the manner in which absentee allowances have been adjusted in England and explaining the circumstances under which over-payments have been made in some instances, and I am to request that it may be ascertained in every case whether over-payments by the India Office, such as these referred to in the above memorandum, have been adjusted.

4. In conclusion, I am to observe that the Secretary of State has ruled that, for periods during which owing to whatever cause furlough allowances were paid directly or indirectly in India and not in England, no excess payments at the two-shilling rate can be claimed. This order disposes of the claims of the officers noted on the margin who drew their absentee allowances either wholly or partly in India.

3. With reference to the cases mentioned in para. 4 of the letter from the Government of India, which are considered in India as having been paid "more than was due to them," I would point out that the difference at 2 shillings the rupee has been issued in these and all other cases for the actual period (whether it includes any period of advance or not) during which absentee allowance at the current rate of exchange had been issued by this office. The officers, to whom the adjustment applies, have been treated as if their absentee allowances had, at the time of their leave, been issued at two shillings the rupee. It is assumed that where pay has been issued in advance in this country and the officer joins his appointment before the expiration of the period for which the advance is given a rupee adjustment takes place, the excess absentee allowance being deducted from the full Indian pay. It will thus be seen that the periods for which the adjustments have been made here, and the amounts of the adjustments made in this country as shown in the above list, differ from the periods and amounts given in the enclosure to the letter from the Government of India and in the letter itself, the latter being as shown below:—

Mr. W. Michell, 28th July 1887 to 27th July 1889, £196-11-0 paid to H. S. King and Co., 4th June 1890.
Mr. G. E. Manson, 16th November 1885 to 31st March 1887, £91-5-9 paid to Grindlay and Co., 20th January 1890.
Mr. H. S. Taylor, 27th May 1884 to 29th March 1886, £113-14-7 paid to H. S. King and Co., 27th January 1890.
