Sir,

In reply to your letter No. 2944 dated 19th ultimo, enquiring whether there is any special necessity for sanctioning a separate witness shed as an adjunct to the District Munsif's Court at Tirukkovalur, I have the honor to state that such necessity does exist.

2. The site for the Court-house now sanctioned is in an open field unprotected by trees and without any adjoining choultry or houses in which the witnesses can shelter. It will, therefore, be a great hardship to parties and witnesses if no shelter of any kind is provided for them. I need scarcely add that their presence in the verandahs cannot be tolerated

(1) because of the noise and interruption to the work of the Court inseparable from such gatherings, and

(2) because the Court usually forbids witnesses whom it intends to examine in a case to be present during the examination of the other witnesses in the same case.

3. I may remind the High Court that the file of the Tirukkovalur Court has greatly increased of late and now stands at about 950 on the original side and at about the same number on the Small cause side, and it is likely to increase still further with the opening of the railway right through the jurisdiction. The number of parties and witnesses in attendance each day is, therefore, very large, and there is the more necessity for giving them some shelter other than that to be found in the verandahs of the Court.

I have rea
