Sir

With much regret I most humbly beg to report that I have arrived from Kuringipadi ancient last night at about 9 o'clock. I met Maistry Subbaroyar who was living close to my shed and asked him the progress made about land statement by him. He replied that he has pegged out up to Odayer limit and he was waiting to meet the Kurnams of Manjakkollay whom I have ordered to be with the Maistry till the completion of land statement in his village limit. I immediately went in my shed to take my meals. Similarly Maistry Subbaroyar went in his shed to take his meals. Five minutes after I got into my shed for meals, I heard the noise that the Maistry's shed is in flames and the Maistry came running with his people and

and children saying that some body has set up fire at South West corner of the roof. By the time I came out of my shed, the roof was in full flame at west end and nobody could approach it. Thinking that all of my records and things will never escape danger being my shed was very close to it I immediately endeavoured to remove 1st the current records in use, and other Scientific instruments which I had in my possession; No sooner I have removed some of the record boxes and things, this roof also caught by fire and no body could approach it. The other 2 Head Lascars Sheds were also caught in fire, Similarly 3 Village Sheds in opposite row were also caught by fire, because the wind was so high and strong, that the fire has spread out so soon within 5 minutes leisure, all these roofs at once; fortunately the current records are all saved except an old box containing old records of 1885 and was unable to remove at that moment. The Maistry who had Port Folio containing Morattu Channel Plans and a Levelling Instrument box for setting Level Section were left in his shed and got in flames with all his things. I therefore humbly beg to suggest that these roofs for Conservancy establishment Sheds should be provided with tiled roofs to escape such dangers in this solitary place where wicked fellows live. The list of Tools and other articles missing are herewith attached.
