N^o 398 S.E.
Executive Engineer
Salem D^o 19th Aug 1902
From
E. E. Manson Esq.
Executive Engineer
Salem D^o.
To
The Suptg. Engineer
4th Circle, Coimbatore.
Sir,

2. The responsibility for the missing famine tools, cannot be traced to any body as they had not been counted since October 1890 and subsequently had been in charge of so many different subordinates that the Salem Sub Division officer when called upon to explain simply says that they had not been counted since he took charge of the Sub Division.

3. The cost of shifting and counting these famine tools would have, on each occasion, exceeded the cost of the articles now found missing.
Whether they really are lost I cannot be certain of. They are so according to the return.
But the actual issues may have been in excess of the issues recorded, as an instance of this occurred during April.
You ordered 6000 Manootas and 6000 pickaxes to be sent to the P.W. stores in April. After dispatch it was subsequently found that 6174 pickaxes were actually sent and after correspondence with the Madras Railway Manager and the P.W. stores Superintendent a receipt for these 6174 pickaxes has been obtained.

Forward

4. Under these circumstances I request that the tools in question may be written off: either as missing or as having been erroneously entered in excess of actual balance.
