To J. Meekazie Esquire,
Sub Divisional Officer, Periyar.

Through The Supervisor,
Main Dam.

Respected Sir, With the great respect and deference to the orders of the Chief Engineer I respectfully beg to solicit a reconsideration of the order appointing me as a temporary Overseer, and directing me to join Mellore forthwith.

The fact of the matter is that my wife after her recent confinement is laid on her bed without hopes of early recovery.
She is in a very delicate state of health and unable to leave her bed. Neither have I nor has she any relatives to look after her in this isolated place. If I go away leaving her behind I am told it would be fatal to her to take her down in her present miserable state of health until she is fully restored to health and strength.

Honored Sir although it was my earnest desire to get an appointment in the plains, the order granting my prayers reached me, to my great misfortune just when I am placed in such desperate circumstances, and unless your honor will help me to this critical moment, I shall be a ruined man.

The anxiety of mind and and your clemency

The urgency of the present case is such, as to leave me no alternative but to appeal to you to pity me, and use your influence, which I know to be very great, in my behalf, and to keep me here for some time more.

Were it not for the peculiar circumstances attending my wife's health, I should not at all have asked this indulgence.

I entirely depend on your charitable disposition to help me in this great need, and any act of kindness in this respect will always be gratefully remembered by me, and mine.

I beg to remain
Sir

Your most obedient & humble
Servant
