The last clause of para 18 Code volume I, chapter II exempts a Native of India whose language is Hindustani from the compulsory (D.S.) Examination. Similarly para 19 of the same chapter while exempts a Native of Burma in Burma from passing any compulsory standard. These principles should in my opinion apply to para 17 in the case of a Native whose language is that of the District in which he is employed, and he can therefore be exempted from the Colloquial examination which is also a compulsory one.
