Read—the following papers :—

Endorsement of the Public Works Department, dated 31st August 1893,
No. 767 D.

From the Director of Public Instruction, Madras, dated 20th September 1893,
No. 10363.

Endorsement of the Public Works Department, dated 31st October 1893,
No. 3528 C.

Endorsement of the Public Works Department, dated 3rd November 1893,
No. 3620 C.

Order—dated 5th December 1893, No. 890, Educational.

In G.O., dated 16th May 1893, No. 330, Educational, the Chief Engineer and the Director of Public Instruction were asked their views on the following alternative suggestions :—

- (1) Whether the Chief Engineer should have power to appoint to the post of second-class draughtsman after three years' approved service men possessing only third-class certificates.
- (2) Whether the rules of the College of Engineering should be amended so as to allow of the grant of First and Second-class Draughtsman's certificates to be awarded irrespective of the marks allotted for work completed during the College course.

The Chief Engineer and the Director of Public Instruction are both in favour of the latter alternative and it will accordingly be adopted. As a consequence of this decision the power of appointing to the first class, after three years' approved service, draughtsmen possessing second-class certificates which was conferred on the Chief Engineer by G.O., dated 1st July 1889, No. 384, Educational, will be withdrawn and the first sentence of note 3 to article 172 of the Madras Public Works Code will be cancelled.

2. Major Love proposes that candidates for the modified first and second class certificates should receive marks on the first six subjects specified in article V (3) of the College rules subject, however, to the condition that they must produce the plans enumerated in the syllabus under items (1), (2), (4) and (6) of article V (3). The Director of Public Instruction endorses this proposal and the Government accepts it.

3. But Major Love further suggests that the privilege of appearing for the modified first and second class certificates should be confined to men who obtained Third-class Draughtsman's certificates prior to 1888; he does not, however, explain why he proposes such a restriction and the Government does not see any reason for it. There is also no provision made by Major Love to meet the case of surveyors, but it seems advisable to concede to them the same privileges as those allowed to draughtsmen. The Government therefore thinks that the best plan will be to substitute for the last sentence of article VII (b) the following rule:—

"(c) A draughtsman or surveyor who has obtained a certificate of the second or third class may appear for examination in a subsequent year on payment of the fee prescribed above in paragraph (6) with a view to qualifying for a certificate of a higher class. Such candidates will be required to qualify on the marks awarded by the Board of Examiners in subjects (1), (2), (3), (4), (5) and (6) of article V (3) or subjects (1), (2), (3) and (4) of article V (4), as the case may be, i.e., on a total of 550 marks. Provided that, in the case of candidates who qualified prior to 1888, no certificate shall be granted under this rule except on production of the plans enumerated in the syllabus under items (1), (2), (4) and (6) of article V (3) or item (4) of article V (4), as the case may be, such plans being certified by the candidates' official superior, employer or other competent and responsible person, to be approved of by the Principal of the College of Engineering, to be his own unaided work. Candidates who qualify under this rule will be granted a modified certificate."

The Director of Public Instruction will be requested to state his opinion as to the suitability and sufficiency of this proposed rule.

4. In a letter, dated 27th June 1893, the Superintending Engineer, IV Circle, raised the question whether a man in possession of the College Draughtsman's or Surveyor's certificate should not be permitted to receive promotion in the Conservancy establishment irrespective of his having passed the general education tests prescribed for appointment to posts carrying pay of Rs. 15 and upwards. This question was referred in G.O., dated 17th July 1893, No. 516, Educational, to the Chief Engineer for opinion and he has endorsed the Superintending Engineer's proposal. The Government accepts the views of the Chief Engineer, but as men possessing second and third class certificates will in future be able, under the rules contained in the preceding portion of this Proceedings, to obtain first-class certificates with greater ease than formerly, and as it is desirable that a modicum of general education should always be required, the Government has decided to restrict the proposed privilege to men who possess a First-class Draughtsman's or Surveyor's certificate and who have at least passed either the late Middle School or the Lower Secondary examination. The necessary addition will be made to the Public Service Notification now under revision.

5. In his letters, dated 27th June and 21st October 1893, the Superintending Engineer, IV Circle, solicits the exemption of one Rangasawmi Nayudu from the examination rules in view to his promotion in the Conservancy Department. A similar request was negatived in G.O., dated 8th May 1893, No. 304, Educational, and it is in connection with this man's case that Major Smart made the proposal referred to in paragraph 4 above. Rangasawmi Nayudu has, it appears, passed the late Middle School examination in the third class and possesses a Third-class Draughtsman's certificate. His case should accordingly be disposed of in accordance with paragraph 4, that is to say, he will be eligible for promotion in the Conservancy Department when he obtains a First-class Draughtsman's certificate.

6. In his endorsement, dated 10th April 1893, and his letter, dated 30th October 1893, the Superintending Engineer, IV Circle, urges the exemption of one Kothandarama Mudaliyar from the necessity of obtaining a Second-class Draughtsman's certificate. It was in connection with this man's case that G.O., dated 16th May 1893, No. 330, Educational, was passed, and it must be disposed of under the terms of the first three paragraphs of this order. Kothandarama Mudaliyar will accordingly be exempted from the rule requiring possession of a Second-class Draughtsman's certificate until the results of the next College examination for Draughtsman's certificates held under the conditions now prescribed are known. If the man then fails to obtain a second-class certificate no further concessions will be granted to him.
