Copy Report by the Consulting Engineer for India, dated 11th February, 1892.

I return the draft order completed, the sketch sent home from India is evidently wrong in several particulars and cannot be worked to. I have therefore prepared a new drawing No. K 48 on which I think the work should be let. At the same time I think it would be as well to send my drawing to India, 1st that they may know what we are doing, and 2nd that they may return it with the radii of the angles of the journals marked on it. These radii are not given at all on the drawing sent home and are necessary to the completion of the work. If I don't get them we must send the axes out plain and leave the journals to be cut in India.

We can let the contract at once on my drawing and specification.

It is requested that in any further communication on this subject the under-mentioned letter and number may be quoted, and the reply addressed to—
