SIR,

ENCLOSURE /

1 copy of letter from the Examiner

In forwarding the accompanying copy of a letter from the Examiner, P. W. Accounts, I have the honor to submit my protest against the retrenchment.

2. The Government of India Resolution No. 3624 A. of 18 August 1893 states that the exchange compensation is given even if no home remittance be made, but if the Examiner's retrenchment be upheld it is clear that I am deprived of a very large portion of my arrears of compensation, because I remitted £150 to England. According to Military rules I was entitled as a Major to remit £150 during the current official year, for the benefit of my family and I would most respectfully point out that this concession would be of no value, unless the

The rate of exchange ~~fixed~~ for such remittances was higher than the market rate, and as a matter of fact

I have never made any remittances through the Military Department unless the Govt. rate was higher than the market rate.

3. The resolution further states that the concession alluded to will cease from the date of the order viz 18th August/93, but as my remittances were made in April, May & June, the order is ^{given} ~~giving~~ retrospective effect from 1st April if I am now defunct to 275.

There appears to me to be a clear distinction between exchange compensation & Military family remittances, the former being drawn irrespective of any home remittance being made or not, while the latter was a special concession made to military officers for the distinct purpose of assisting them in supporting their families out of India.

4. With this explanation I would ask that the question of my reimbursement should be favourably considered on the grounds:-

i. that the concessions hitherto granted to Military officers of making family effect from the 18th August/93 & not from 1st April 1893

fixed $2810/4$
ii. That the rate ~~fixed~~ for such remittances must always be higher than the market rate or the whole object of the concession would be defeated.

iii. That as the exchange compensation is intended to enable an officer to remit money home for any purpose, at any time, and in any manner open to him, it is not clear to me why the fact of my having availed myself of the means offered to me as a Military officer of remitting £150 to England for the benefit of my family, should now be a bar to my drawing the full amount of the arrears of exchange compensation as calculated on my salary, more especially as the concession under the Military rules was not withdrawn until 18th August 1893 or some months after my remittances were made through the Military Department.

I have the honor to be
Sir

Your most obedient servant,
