READ—the following paper :—

From H. IRWIN, Esq., C.I.E., Consulting Engineer to Government, and the Chief Engineer, Public Works Department, dated 6th June 1893, No. 645.

I have the honour to submit a note from Mr. J. H. Stephens, Honorary Assistant Engineer, pointing out that by the new Provincial Service Rules one and two appointments are provided in alternate years in the Madras Presidency. By the old rules only one appointment was made annually, so that now one appointment becomes immediately available in alternate years for deserving upper subordinates in the Madras Presidency.

2. In my letter No. 779, dated the 14th June 1892, I recommended that Mr. Stephens' service should receive some special recognition and request that Government may be pleased to confer on him one of the first appointments in the Provincial Service.

ENCLOSURE

NOTE

G.O., No. 2232 W., of 13th August 1892, refers to the new appointments in the Provincial Service of the Public Works Department throughout India, of which in para. III is made as follows :—

In lists under the Government of India, exclusive of Bengal, five appointments from the Thomason College, Rurki, and three upper subordinates.

To the Bengal list — One apprentice from Sibpur and in alternate years one upper subordinate.

To the Madras list — One from the Madras Engineering College and, in alternate years one upper subordinate.

In the Government of India letter of 14th October 1892, No. 3354 G., explaining when the appointments under the above should take effect, it is stated in para. 2 that, as the appointments under the old rules of 13th December 1884 are still being made, the appointments under the new rules must be limited in numbers to the difference between those allowed under the new and old rules. In elucidation of this it is explained in para. 3 that in the lists under the Government of India, according to the new resolution of 1892, eight appointments are allowed, but as by the old resolution of 1884 still in force, 4 and 5 appointments are made in alternate years; "consequently three appointments at least of upper subordinates can be made annually under the new rules to the lists under the Government of India."

In the case of Bengal, it is explained in para. 4 that as the numbers of one and two appointments in alternate years allowed in the old rules agree exactly with the appointments sanctioned in the new rules, no new appointments can be made under the new rules till the old rules cease to have effect. A similar remark is made about Madras. The Government of India in this case evidently did not know that by the old rules only one appointment is made from the Madras College of Engineering annually, whereas the new rules allow Madras one and two appointments in alternate years as in Bengal, so that according to these rules one appointment is available in alternate years for the upper subordinates of the Madras Presidency.

Para. 7 of the Government of India letter provides for such appointments, and the Government of Madras, in para. 2 of G.O., No. 3155 W., of 17th November 1892, also admits that they can be made. I beg that the wise and liberal spirit of the order of the 12th August 1892 may be put into practice by the appointment of a deserving upper subordinate of the Madras establishment into the Provincial Service in alternate years.

(Signed) J. H. STEPHENS.

LETTER—from

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA,

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

SIR,

I am directed to request the orders of the Government of India on the following question in connection with appointments to the Provincial scale of the Public Works Department in Madras.

2. In para. 7 of Mr. Walker's letter No. 3354 G., dated 14th October 1892, it is said that should the appointments on any of the Bengal, Bombay and Madras lists actually made under the rules of 1884 fall absolutely short of the number guaranteed under the new rules,* a reference may be made to the Government of India as to the admissibility of an appointment under the new rules.

3. The number of appointments allotted to Madras under the new rules is one college student annually and one upper subordinate in alternate years, while under the old rules one college student only can be appointed. It follows therefore that in alternate years there will be room for the appointment of one upper subordinate in order to complete the number allotted to Madras under the new rules. Para. 5, however, states that no appointments are to be made under the new rules in Madras until appointments cease to be made under the rules of 1884.

4. I am accordingly to inquire whether the Madras Government is at liberty to appoint, with effect from the current official year, one upper subordinate to the Provincial scale and thereafter to repeat the appointment in alternate years.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Ag. Joint Secy. to Govt., P.W.D.,
General, Buildings and Roads Branch.

G. O. No 2232 W of 12th

August 92 refers to the new appointments in the Provincial Service of the Public Works department throughout India. The distribution of which in para III is made as follows:—

In lists under the Government of India exclusive of Bengal. Five appointments from the Thomson College Kunk, and three different Subordinates.

To the Bengal list. One apprentice from Sibpur, and in alternate years, one upper Subordinate.

To the Madras list. One from the Madras Engineering College, and in alternate years one different Subordinate.

In the Government of India letter of 14th October 1892 No. 3354 G. O. explaining when the appointments under the above should take effect, it is stated in para 2, that as the appointments under the old rules of 13th December 84, are still being made, the appointments under under the new rules, must be limited in numbers to the difference between those allowed under the new and old rules. In elucidation of this, it is explained in para 3, that in the lists under the Government of India, according to the new resolution of 1892, Eight appointments are allowed, but as by the old resolution of 1884, still in force, 4 and 5 appointments are made in alternate years. "Consequently three appointments at least of Differ Subordinates can be made annually under the new rules to the lists under the Government of India."

In the case of Bengal, it is explained in para 4, that as the numbers of one and 2 appointments in alternate years, allowed in the old rules, agree exactly with the appointments sanctioned in the new rules, no new appointments can be made under the new rules, till the old rules cease to have effect.

a similar remark is made about Madras. Para 7 of the Government of India letter provides for such appointments, and the Government of Madras, in para 2 of G. O. No. 31557 of 17th November 1892, also admits that they can be made. I beg that the wise and liberal spirit of the order of the 12th August 1892, may be put into practice, by the

There appears to be some force in

it may be considered desirable to refer

It is possible
as Bombay will in
