READ—the following paper :—

From the Hon'ble S. SRINIVASA RAGHAVAIYANGAR, Dewan Bahadur, C.I.E., Inspector-General of Registration, Madras, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Coimbatore, 9th July 1894, No. 3035-T.

Under Note 2 appended to Article 2 of the public service notification, dated 9th May 1894, which came into force on the 1st instant, under-graduates who have not passed the Handwriting test, as prescribed under English language in the Upper Secondary notification, are ineligible for appointment to posts carrying a salary of not less than Rs. 15 per mensem. Up to the 1st instant, persons who had passed the First Examination in Arts were eligible for appointments of the above kind though they had not passed the Handwriting test, and as they have not had sufficient notice of the new qualification prescribed to enable them to pass the test, they are placed at a disadvantage as compared with persons who had passed the Matriculation examination and the Handwriting test. As a rule, graduates and under-graduates and persons who have passed the Upper Secondary examination, if any, are nominated to sub-registrarships, persons who have passed the Matriculation examination not being considered to possess sufficient educational qualifications for such posts. This being so, the recent rule referred to bears hard on communities which are educationally backward—the Muhammadans for instance. I have received no applications for appointments from Muhammadan graduates, though I have received some from persons who have passed the First Examination in Arts. The latter could not now be nominated to sub-registrarships and it is not desirable in the interests of public service to nominate Matriculates. In these circumstances, I have the honour to recommend that Government may be pleased to suspend the operation of the new rule for a reasonable period—say, two years—in order that under-graduates who have not passed the Handwriting test may have opportunities for passing it.

ORDER—dated 27th July 1894, No. 540, Educational.

The Handwriting test will be held in December and the results should be known before the end of January. The Government therefore considers that it will suffice if sanction is accorded to the appointment of F.As. who have not passed in handwriting to posts carrying Rs. 15 and upwards until the 1st February 1895, on which date this concession will expire.
