this the Chief Engineer, P.W.D. Madras.

Sir,

I shall feel much obliged by your informing me how much land is irrigated by the Poriniar in Mysore Territory. This river takes its rise in the Nandidroog and flows into and through the Salem District. It supplies the large Barur Tank in the latter District. My object is to ascertain the irrigating duty of this river. It must be a high one judging from the small discharges over the Anicut across it which supplies the Barur Tank.

2. The irrigating duty of catchment basins is a matter of considerable importance in drawing up irrigation projects and I am Barur Tank. Data are being collected by the P.W. Dept of this Government as to the irrigating duty of catchment basins, and the information now asked for will facilitate the inquiry.

conclusion that daily allowance is intended to include the up-keep of a horse.

3. With regard to the second point, all that need be said is that C. S.R. II79(a) does not apply to the P.W.D. except in so far as it points out a rule which has been made on purpose to meet the special requirements of the P.W.D. viz article II83(b).

4. Now under that rule, horse allowance "is forfeited whenever daily allowance ^{drawn} is ~~forfeited~~"; and to my mind it is less admissible when actual expenses are drawn, such expenses being as a rule higher than a daily allowance and being claimed as resulting in a smaller loss to the officer.

5. The amount under dispute is only one rupee, but the principle involved is important. The practical way of viewing the case is this:— If Mr. Mathews' actual expenses had amounted to a sum just equal to his daily allowance, he would have forfeited his horse allowance, in lieu of daily allowance: on what ground, therefore, is he entitled to horse allowance when he has drawn a sum exceeding his daily allowance?

To

W.

Your office note No. 2670 C. dated 11th. August 1894.

The Superintendent of Works, No.
I Periyar Division, appears to be in error on two important points connected with this case-

- A. in the impression that daily allowance is intended to include the up keep of a horse;
- B. in the argument that the concluding part of C.S.R. II 79(a) confirms the view that actual expenses may be drawn concurrently with horse allowance.

2. With reference to the first point C.S.R. II 54(a) clearly shows that " a daily allowance is intended to cover the ordinary daily charges ^{of} an officer on tour" - I underline the words which bear specifically on the case -, while a permanent conveyance or horse allowance, on the other hand, is given to a subordinate who "has a large amount of travelling at or near head quarters". I therefore see nothing that warrants the

The Chief Engineer, Public Works Department,

Sir,

I have the honour to request orders on the following point, being one which has occurred several times lately and will occur again.

2. Mr B. J. Matthews draws a horse allowance of Rs 30 per mensem. The Examiner disallowed this horse allowance for the 5th April last on the ground that actual expenses were passed to Mr Matthews for that day for his journey from Thekady to Kodakkanal, and that under Civil Service Regulations article 1183 (b) he is not entitled to both actual expenses and horse allowance.
In point of fact the article quoted specifies

Specifies only "daily allowance or road mileage" (but does not specify actual expenses) as inadmissible together with Horse Allowance. The Examiner meets this by explaining that "Actual Expenses are in lieu of road mileage".

3. Admitting that the Examiner is correct in going behind the letter of the article, I am nevertheless under the impression that the pay of a horsekeeper and groomer ~~is~~ are not legitimate items in a bill of actual expenses, whereas mileage (as well as daily allowance) is fixed ^A at such a rate as will cover these expenses. If this impression is correct then actual expenses cannot be said to be "in lieu of" (in the Examiner's sense of "equivalent to") mileage inasmuch as the one does not, and the other does, include the upkeep of a horse. ^A Either therefore actual expenses may be drawn concurrently with horse allowance, or the charges for the upkeep of a horse should be charged in in actual expense bills. These charges do not indeed appear incompatible with the definition of "actual expenses" in the beginning of the Civil Service Regulations, but the simpler course would certainly be to accept the Civil Service Regulations Article 1183(b) as it stands and allow Horse allowance to be drawn concurrently with actual expenses though not with Daily allowance or Mileage. The concluding part of Civil Service Regulations, Article B. 1179(a) would also appear to confirm the view that actual expenses may be drawn concurrently with horse allowance.
