G.O., dated 16th May 1894, R. No. 952, Revenue.

ABSTRACT.—Recording Board's Proceedings informing Government that samples of locks manufactured by A. Sankaralingam Achari and Brothers have been called for and that certain Collectors have also been requested to report on the locks and that the Board's remarks will be submitted on receipt of all the replies.

From the Hon'ble S. SRINIVASA RAGHAVAIYANGAR, C.I.E., Diwan Bahadur, Inspector-General of Registration, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Madras, 19th May 1894, G. No. 1495.

Adverting to the Government endorsement (herewith returned), dated 12th March 1894, No. 485, Judicial, on a petition from A. Sankaralingam Achari and Brothers, Dindigul, I have the honour to report as follows.

2. In 1879 Mr. Ramiengar, the then Inspector-General of Registration, recommended to Government the use of Sankaralingam Achari's locks in lieu of Chubb's locks, the price of the former being fixed at Rs. 6 per lock. The sample of lock forwarded by the Dindigul smiths was examined by the Superintendent of Public Works Workshops, who pronounced it to be of first-class make and finish. The Superintendent further doubted whether the smiths would be able to furnish locks of the quality of the sample at Rs. 6 each and stated that care should be taken to see that the locks supplied had not less than six tumblers, which was the number found in the sample. The Government in its order, dated 23rd December 1879, No. 3265, Judicial, authorized the purchase of the locks required by the Registration Department from the Dindigul smiths at the rate of Rs. 6 per lock of the pattern submitted.

3. In 1882, Mr. Hamnett, the late Inspector-General of Registration, reported in his letter recorded in the Proceedings of the Government, Financial Department, dated 25th September 1882, No. 1288, that the high opinion entertained of the quality of the locks had been confirmed by experience.

4. In 1886 Mr. Hamnett again instituted inquiries as regards the working of the Dindigul locks and the result showed that, owing to certain defects in construction, they were more troublesome to work than Chubb's locks and the keys were less strong. The locks were again examined by the Superintendent of Public Works Workshops, who pointed out the defects and the remedies for them. The Dindigul smiths having agreed to adopt the Superintendent's suggestions, the contract for the supply of locks was continued to them. In 1889 the smiths having represented that locks of the improved pattern could not be supplied by them at Rs. 6 each without incurring loss, Mr. Hamnett recommended to Government the enhancement of the price fixed for each lock from Rs. 6 to Rs. 7. The Government sanctioned this rate in G.O., dated 22nd June 1889, No. 1063, Judicial.

5. Since 1889 I have had no complaints regarding the locks of the improved pattern supplied by the contractors. They are strong and well made and no difficulty has been experienced in working them. The keys are sufficiently strong. The locks are so constructed that they cannot be opened except by their special keys. They are much cheaper than Chubb's locks and satisfy the requirements of the Registration department. Between 80 and 90 locks are purchased for the use of the department annually.

Letter from J. W. H. Ellis, Esq., General Superintendent, Public Works Workshops, dated 27th August 1894, No. 5 B.L.R.

Resolution—dated 5th September 1894, Mis. No. 4946.

With the first paper read above, the Government referred to the Board for remarks a petition from Messrs. A. Sankaralingam Achari and Brothers, mechanics, of Dindigul, asking for a much larger share of its orders for locks.

2. Sample locks of different sizes were obtained from the firm together with a price list and forwarded to the Superintendent, Public Works Workshops, for comparison with Chubb's locks and report. The Collectors of the marginally-noted districts who purchased Dindigul locks in 1882 and 1883 were also requested to report whether any of them are still in use and how they have stood wear and tear.

3. The following is a summary of the reports received :—

Vizagapatam.—Some of the locks purchased in 1882-83 are still in use and have stood wear and tear pretty well, but they are inferior to Chubb's locks in durability and in respect of security.

Kistna.—Thirty-five locks are still in use. Though some of them have been in use for the last ten years, they have, with one exception, stood wear and tear well.

Tanjore.—Forty-three out of sixty locks purchased in 1885 are still in use and in good order. They stand wear and tear well and are suitable for general purposes where the security obtained by using an expensive Chubb's lock is not required. Of the remaining seventeen locks, five were sold as useless and five are out of order.

Madura.—The locks have been in use for the last three or four years and are all in good order. They are strong and seem to stand wear and tear just as well as Chubb's locks.

South Canara.—Four out of ten locks purchased in 1884 have been in use and are all in good order.

Superintendent, Public Works Workshops.—He first examined the locks without breaking them and reported that they were all substantial but that they could not compare with Chubb's locks which were far superior in quality. In his subsequent communication the Superintendent states that the locks have all been opened and examined by him and that, in his opinion, they are quite as good as Chubb's locks and are constructed on the same principle. He adds that the Dindigul locks are well worth the prices demanded for them.

4. The Government has drawn attention to the remarks of the Inspector-General of Registration in his letter, dated 19th May 1894, No. 1495, in which the locks are stated to be strong and well made, much cheaper than Chubb's locks, and so constructed that they cannot be opened except by their special keys.

5. On the whole, the Board considers that the Dindigul locks may be given a further and more extended trial, but where great security is needed, e.g., in the case of cash-chests, Chubb's locks should always be used for the simple reason that the maker's name affords a guarantee that the locks are unique and that duplicate keys are unprocureable.

Letter from J. W. H. Ellis, Esq., General Superintendent, Public Works Workshops, dated 27th August 1894, No. 5 B.L.R.

Resolution—dated 5th September 1894, Mis. No. 4946.

With the first paper read above, the Government referred to the Board for remarks a petition from Messrs. A. Sankaralingam Achari and Brothers, mechanics, of Dindigul, asking for a much larger share of its orders for locks.

2. Sample locks of different sizes were obtained from the firm together with a price list and forwarded to the Superintendent, Public Works Workshops, for comparison with Chubb's locks and report. The Collectors of the marginally-noted districts who purchased Dindigul locks in 1882 and 1883 were also requested to report whether any of them are still in use and how they have stood wear and tear.

3. The following is a summary of the reports received:—

Vizagapatam.—Some of the locks purchased in 1882-83 are still in use and have stood wear and tear pretty well, but they are inferior to Chubb's locks in durability and in respect of security.

Kistna.—Thirty-five locks are still in use. Though some of them have been in use for the last ten years, they have, with one exception, stood wear and tear well.

Tanjore.—Forty-three out of sixty locks purchased in 1885 are still in use and in good order. They stand wear and tear well and are suitable for general purposes where the security obtained by using an expensive Chubb's lock is not required. Of the remaining seventeen locks, five were sold as useless and five are out of order.

Madura.—The locks have been in use for the last three or four years and are all in good order. They are strong and seem to stand wear and tear just as well as Chubb's locks.

South Canara.—Four out of ten locks purchased in 1884 have been in use and are all in good order.

Superintendent, Public Works Workshops.—He first examined the locks without breaking them and reported that they were all substantial but that they could not compare with Chubb's locks which were far superior in quality. In his subsequent communication the Superintendent states that the locks have all been opened and examined by him and that, in his opinion, they are quite as good as Chubb's locks and are constructed on the same principle. He adds that the Dindigul locks are well worth the prices demanded for them.

4. The Government has drawn attention to the remarks of the Inspector-General of Registration in his letter, dated 19th May 1894, No. 1495, in which the locks are stated to be strong and well made, much cheaper than Chubb's locks, and so constructed that they cannot be opened except by their special keys.

5. On the whole, the Board considers that the Dindigul locks may be given a further and more extended trial, but where great security is needed, e.g., in the case of cash-chests, Chubb's locks should always be used for the simple reason that the maker's name affords a guarantee that the locks are unique and that duplicate keys are unprocurable.
